SENATORS OPEN DEBT LIMIT RISE HEARING, TALK OF COMPROMISE

Humphrey Appears for Bill Passed by House —No Adjournment of Congress This Week-end.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —The Senate Finance Committee was considering today what to do about President Eisenhower's request for a 15-billion-dollar increase in the national debt limit. There was some talk of a compromise on the politically touchy issue.

The committee met for three hours and then recessed until later in the day. No vote has been taken, it was learned.

One committee member, it was learned, showed up with a compromise proposal of a temporary five-billion-dollar increase in the ceiling, to run only until June 30, 1954. However, Chairman Millikin (Rep.), Colorado, said he knew of no compromise agreement.

A compromise acceptable to most Senators would permit early adjournment of Congress. Presumably a compromise would be approved by the House, which yesterday voted the full increase to 290 billions in the debt limit.

House Republican leader Halleck of Indiana said last night the House should be ready to adjourn by tonight, as originally planned.

No Adjournment.

However, Senator Knowland, of California, acting majority leader, today ruled out any chance of adjournment of the Senate this week. He told the Senate it "will have a session Monday next."

The debt limit now stands at 275 billions. The national debt has reached 272½ billions.

Senator Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, who is not a member of the committee, has proposed that the debt limit be increased two billions. This compromise would stay in effect until Congress returns to Washington next January and makes a full study.

Humphrey at Hearing.

On hand to try to persuade the finance committee to go along with an increase to a 290 billion dollar debt limit were Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge.

Also in and out of the committee room was Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, the White House liaison man with Congress. Asked by a reporter about the prospects, Persons said: "It's too close for comfort."

Senator Kerr (Dem.), Oklahoma, flew back from Oklahoma for the meeting. He had gone home because of the death of his mother. He declined to state his position on the debt limit before the meeting.

Two Republicans who have opposed the President's proposal, Senators Williams of Deleware and Hugh Butler of Nebraska, both said they knew of no change in the situation.

Majority Against Bill.

A check of the committee yesterday had indicated a majority against the measure.

The House acted with great speed. The Ways and Means Committee met early yesterday and voted the plan out 17-6.

On the key floor test, a motion to send the measure back to committee—to insert an amendment limiting the ceiling increase to 18 months — was defeated by a 225-173 margin. Then the bill was approved. Voting for approval were 169 Republicans, 69 Democrats and one independent. Opposed were 33 Republicans and 125 Democrats.

State Funeral for Senator Taft To Be Monday Noon in Capitol

Eisenhower, Other High Officials to Attend—Burial Will Be in Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —Senator Robert A. Taft will be honored with a state funeral in the Capitol Monday, with President Eisenhower and other dignitaries joining in the service.

The Senate, in which Taft served as majority leader, invited the government leaders to take part and the White House said the President, "of course, will attend."

The services will be in the rotunda, at noon.

The last state funeral held in the Capitol was for Gen. John J. Pershing, July 19, 1948.

Taft's body will be brought to Washington Sunday from New York, where he died, and will lie in state in the historic Capitol rotunda.

The public will be permitted to view the body from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday.

After the memorial service, the body will be taken to Cincinnati for private funeral services and burial Tuesday.

The services—for family and personal friends—will be held at noon in the Indian Hill Church. Burial will follow in the church cemetery.

Forest A. Harness, Senate sergeant at arms, announced that Vice President Nixon, Senate and House Members, Supreme court justices, members of the cabinet, military leaders and diplomats of other nations are scheduled to attend the service here, as well as "many of the public for whom there are seats available."

He said it has been requested that no flowers be sent. However, his announcement added that any offerings should be in the form of gifts to "appropriate charitable organizations."

Taft's death yesterday, from cancer, continued to evoke expressions of grief.

The Senate's chaplain, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, included in his opening prayer today praise of Taft as a "public servant who was an apostle of honesty in whom was no guile or shadow of duplicity or expediency — who could be counted upon to say what he meant and to mean what he said without fear or favor."

House members sat hushed anud attentive today as more than 30 Congressmen rose to pay tribute to Taft's memory.

Majority Leader Halleck (Rep.), Indiana, described Taft as one of the "greatest public servants in the nation's history" and said his "integrity was unassailable and his word was his bond."

Representative Arends (Rep.), Illinois, the majority whip, called Taft "one of the world's truly great men."

Minority Leader Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, expressing his "deep personal fondness" for Taft said: "He was truly a great American."

The Taft's Victorian red brick residence in Washington's Georgetown district kept a light burning over the doorway last night. Messengers with telegrams and flowers kept appearing in its glow.

Autos drove up the quiet tree-shaded street, paused and drove on.

Mrs. Darrah Wunder of Cincinnati, an old family friend who began living with the Tafts after Mrs. Taft suffered a partly paralyzing stroke in mid-1950, answered the door and the telephone.

EXPIRING CONGRESS CUT TRUMAN'S BUDGET BY 13 BILLIONS, A RECORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP).

THE expiring first session of the Eighty-third Congress appropriated 13 billion dollars less than the new money requested by former President Truman in January—a record cut.

In its drive to bring new government obligational authority closer to its prewar levels, Congress cut about four billion dollars from the revised money requests of President Eisenhower.

The 13 billions eliminated from the Truman requests represents a reduction of about 20 per cent. It exceeds by three billions the reduction goal set last January by Chairman Taber (Rep.), New York, of the House Appropriations Committee.

Truman asked Congress for new appropriations of $66,288,000,000 for the fiscal year that started July 1. Eisenhower scaled this down to $57,029,000,000. Both amounts are exclusive of more than seven billions in permanent appropriations, such as interest on the national debt, over which Congress has little or no control.

Congress decided that the Federal Government must get along on slightly more than 53 billions.

HEAVY GUARD OUT AS EAST REICH PRESIDENT RETURNS

BERLIN, Aug. 1 (AP)—Shielded by one of the heaviest police guards ever mustered here, Communist President Wilhelm Pieck returned today to a sullen and rebellious East Germany from a three-month rest cure in the Soviet Union.

The 77-year-old President, who had been away since last April when he was stricken with pneumonia, looked fat and suntanned as he arrived at East Berlin's main station. He was greeted by a large delegation headed by Premier Otto Grotewohl and the deputy premier and party boss, Walter Ulbricht.

Also among the greeters was Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov, who was covered by a constant bodyguard.

9 PERSONS KILLED WHEN 2 AUTOS COLLIDE IN RAIN

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Aug. 1 (UP)—A two-car collision killed nine persons west of here today in a heavy rainstorm. An unidentified woman was reported injured seriously.

Killed were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Starmack and Mr. and Mrs. Gus A. Olson of Minneapolis, passengers in one of the cars, and John Frank Bemben and Roth Adelberg, both of Winnipeg, Manitoba. The other three victims were not immediately identified.

The front of the Minneapolis car was jammed back to the level of the windshield. The Manitoba automobile, apparently hit broadside, was pushed into a ditch.

The stretch of U.S. Highway 10 on which the accident occurred recently had been given a "seal coat" and therefore was unusually slippery as a result of the rain.

All Town's Services Threatened By Crackdown on Slot Machines

TALLULAH, La., Aug. 1 (AP) —About every service this city provides its 3000 residents is threatened with curtailment today because of state enforcement of a law against slot machines.

Ninety-five slot machines finance the operation of the city's government—right on up from collecting the garbage to building football stadiums.

State Superintendent of Police Francis Grevemberg ordered a crackdown on all forms of gambling, effective last Saturday night. Even church bingo games were outlawed.

Tallulah's 95 machines were carted from drugstores, general stores, cafes and barrooms.

A non-profit organization named Associated Charities operated the slot machines, collected the money and distributed the income among the city, parish, charity organizations and other groups.

Besides paying for Tallulah's operating expenses, the slot machines also provided funds for 19 new school busses, two football stadiums, each costing about $50,000, resurfacing all Tallulah streets at a cost of $110,000, a $26,000 bridge, health building, several fire trucks and a library.

Even the state police who are enforcing the slot machine bar have benefitted from the machines. Their headquarters building was built with slot machine funds.

150,000 WORKERS DEFY REDS, ENTER WEST BERLIN TO GET FOOD GIFTS

Weekend March Led by Organizers of June 17 Revolt — Soviet Zone Border Guards Avoid Clash.

BERLIN, Aug. 1 (UP)—Defiant laborers from the Soviet zone of Germany today marched 150,000-strong past Communist border guards to enter West Berlin and claim gift parcels of American food.

Today's mass invasion by workmen from all corners of Russian-run East Germany swelled to well over 1,000,000 the number of persons who have received food parcels.

To enter the United States, British and French sectors of Berlin where the packages are distributed, they defied Soviet and Communist threats of arrest on espionage charges, beatings by "goon" squads of Red youths and wholesale confiscation of their food parcels.

The weekend march of laborers to West Berlin was organized to throw the weight of overwhelming numbers against Red border guards who were ordered yesterday to take harsh measures to curb the tide of East Germans joining the West's "bread line."

Police Warned.

Led by the organizers of the violent anti-Communist rebellion which swept the Soviet zone on June 17, the laborers warned the Communist border police in advance that they would come and that they would not be stopped.

In Hamburg, meanwhile, the second shipload of American food for East Germany's hungry millions arrived in the north German port aboard the United States Lines steamer American Flier.

Unloading of the 1223-ton cargo of food was begun at once.

Soviet zone border guards, who tried to intimidate individual East Germans seeking the free food, carefully avoided any clash with the workers organized into groups at their factories and mines for the hunger march. The Red police kept their distance despite the taunts of the marchers crossing the border.

The workers consisted for the most part of leaders and participants in strikes during the anti-Communist revolt, which was quelled only by Soviet tanks.

They paid no heed to an appeal by Premier Otto Grotewohl last night to stay home and ignore attempts of the "enemy" to cause confusion in their ranks. Instead, they took advantage of the weekend to make the march.

East Reich Warning.

Neues Deutschland, official Communist party newspaper, warned in a front-page editorial that the East German government might use the food program as an excuse to shut the east-west city border, the only opening in the Iron Curtain.

The newspaper charged the West began the relief program in an effort to "force" the border closing action, thereby undermining efforts toward German unification.

The Communist attack on the American - backed program reached fever pitch today. Newspapers and radio in one voice insisted the Americans were recruiting spies and saboteurs among the food-seekers.

Newspapers published new lists of persons receiving food and said their names had been turned over to western espionage organizations.

Evangelical clergyman Hermann Earhardt was accused by Neues Deutschland of picking up food parcels for six of his Berlin parishioners. The newspaper charged the pastor "offered himself as an agent" and delivered his parishioners to the "warmongers."

"He will have to answer before God and before man," it said, hinting that he will be arrested.

Yesterday for the first time Communist police began mass seizures of the food packages.

At Potsdam, about 10 miles west of Berlin, police surrounded the railroad station where thousands of East Germans changed trains on the way home. Many had their identity cards impounded and their five-pound parcels seized. Similar actions were carried out at other terminals.

EISENHOWER MAY SEEK SOCIAL SECURITY EXPANSION

White House Says Message May Go to Congress Before Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)— White House officials said today President Eisenhower may send to Congress before it adjourns for the summer a message recommending expansion of social security coverage.

It was reported, however, that any legislation recommended would go over until the next session.

There were reports at the Capitol last Wednesday that the President intends to ask for an increase in social security benefits and their extension to more than 10,000,000 persons not now covered.

TRUCE POLICING BODY HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING AT PANMUNJOM

Is Wished Success by Red Leader — First Group of Allied P.O.W.s Reported on Way to Freedom.

MUNSAN, Aug. 1 (AP)—The four-nation neutral commission which will police the Korean armistice met at Panmunjom today for the first time and heard the Communists' chief military armistice delegate wish it success.

Meanwhile, the first group of Allied prisoners was reported on its way down the road to freedom and the United Nations Command prepared a full-dress reception rehearsal for Monday to speed their homeward journey. The prisoner exchange is scheduled to begin Wednesday at Panmunjom (Tuesday night St. Louis time).

The neutral commission officers from Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia were introduced and exchanged credentials in a formal meeting at the dusty truce site.

Session 'Satisfactory.'

The head of the Swedish delegation, Maj. Gen. Sven Grafstrom, described the session as "entirely satisfactory."

He said all four nations "are very eager" to start sending out inspection teams, possibly "toward the end of the week."

Alternate chiefs of the neutral teams will confer tomorrow morning and full delegations in the afternoon.

Saturday's meeting was cordial, but all business. The Polish and Czech delegates, sharply dressed in white jackets and hats and dark trousers, marched in separately from the Swiss and Swedish officers, attired in conservative khaki.

The commission's chief function is to watch for violations of the armistice.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, the Allies' senior delegate to the U.N.-Red military armistice commission, introduced the Swiss and Swedish representatives. Lt. Gen. Lee Sang Cho, Bryan's counterpart on the commission, introduced the Poles and Czechs. Lee told the officers:

"I hope for the success of the members of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission."

The Communists said they will deliver 400 Allied prisoners daily, in groups of 100 hourly, beginning at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

That means, if all goes well, all Allied prisoners should be freed in the following 32 days. Armistice terms specified that all prisoners must be exchanged within 60 days after the signing last Monday.

'Non-Koreans' First.

The Red Peiping radio said the first Allied prisoners would be "non-Korean" sick and wounded—including Americans and British—from a camp at Pyoktong near the Manchurian border.

The Reds have said they will return 12,763 Allied captives, 3313 of them Americans. The U.N. will deliver about 74,000 Communist P.O.W.s.

Allied P.O.W.s will be turned over by the Reds at Panmunjom, and then rushed to Munsan for processing.

Five United States Air Force C-119 Flying Boxcars airlifted 29 tons of American Red Cross kits to Seoul for use by the returning Allied captives. The kits, stockpiled in southern Japan for the last several months, contained razors, shaving cream, soap, tooth paste and brushes, and writing material.

After three efforts failed, U.N. Red Cross teams Saturday finally won permission from the Reds to cross into North Korea Monday to distribute comfort packages and medical supplies to Allied prisoners in Red stockades.

Red Prisoners Moved.

L. W. Neatherlin, head of the U.N. Red Cross team, said the vanguard of the Communist prisoners were being readied for the short trip from Inchon to Panmunjom.

He said the Allies are shipping daily to Inchon 1800 Communist prisoners from Koje island, 600 from Cheju island, and 1630 from Pusan.

The military armistice commission held its fifth session Saturday, then adjourned at Red request until Monday. Bryan said the meetings "continue very smoothly."

The commission thas the task of watching for violations in the 2½-mile-wide-buffer zone that separates the Allied and Communist armies.

Seven observer teams are scattered across the battlefront. Although bad weather has hampered their operations, at least one Allied team met with Communist officers Friday.

There were no immediate reports on the other teams.

A Hole In One.

WACO, Tex., Aug. 1 (UP)— Mrs. I. Avnet of Dallas sent Municipal Judge Wayne Lee of Waco her husband's pants pocket, with a hole in it. The pocket, she explained in a letter, was the reason they got a parking ticket during a visit to Waco. Their automobile keys fell through the hole and they couldn't move the car. Lee tore up the ticket.

President for Using U.S. Forces To Rebuild Korea, Dulles Says

Secretary Urges Allies to Do the Same — Leaves Tomorrow to See Rhee— Senate Leaders Not Going.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told nations allied with the United States in the Korean war today that President Eisenhower has approved a program for using the United States forces in Korea to rebuild the country and convert it into a show window of the free world.

He urged the Allied governments to consider using their forces there that way—building roads, schools, hospitals, etc.

Dulles spoke at a closed session of United States and foreign diplomats preliminary to taking off for Korea tomorrow on post armistice political problems. His remarks were informally reported by United States officials later.

Dulles expressed hope that the 15 other nations having units in the United Nations forces in Korea would continue to keep them there. He said the Communists foe have in no way relaxed their readiness for combat and that the Allies must remain on the alert because of the possibility of incidents which the Reds could build on if they desired.

The four Senate leaders Dulles had counted on to help conclude a defense treaty with South Korean President Syngman Rhee will not accompany him on his trip.

Acting Republican Leader Knowland of California, Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Senators Russell (Dem.), Georgia, and Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, announced late yesterday they felt they should remain in Washington to work on President Eiserhower's request for an increase in the national debt limit.

Dulles expressed regret that the four would not be able to accompany him. But he announced that he had to leave tomorrow morning in order to hold his scheduled talks with Rhee and return here before the opening of the United Nations General Assembly session at New York Aug. 17. He said he hopes to get back to Washington by Aug. 10.

The meeting today was the last regular session of the Allied

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —The Weather Bureau said today its 30-day outlook for August calls for temperatures to average below normal in the northern half of the nation except for near normal in the lower lakes, middle Atlantic states, and northwest coast.

Above normal temperatures are expected in the southern half of the country except for near normal in the central plains.

Near normal amounts are indicated in the Rocky Mountain states, Ohio valley, middle Atlantic states, southern plains, and Gulf coast.

PRESIDENT TO FLY TO SEATTLE FOR GOVERNORS' TALKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —President Eisenhower will fly to Seattle Monday to attend the annual Governors' conference.

He will leave Washington shortly after attending state funeral services for Senator Robert A. Taft at the Capitol Monday noon. The trip to Seattle will be non-stop.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said today the President would attend some of the round table informal discussions at the Governors' conference Tuesday morning and would attend a luncheon that day.

The President will make no formal address, Hagerty said, adding that he is expected to have some informal remarks to make.

The President will be back at the White House in time for his daily schedule of work Wednesday.

ATTACK OCCURRED IN KOREAN WAR ZONE, AMERICAN NOTE ASSERTS

Moscow Protest Delayed Four Days, Suggesting Cover-Up for Destroying of U.S. Bomber Off Siberia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —The United States today rejected Russia's protest that American pilots shot down a Soviet transport plane over Chinese territory. Instead, the State Department said, Russia bears the responsibility for sending the plane into "the Korean zone of hostilities."

The Russian protest, handed to United States Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in Moscow yesterday, said the plane was destroyed and 21 lives were lost when four United States fighters attacked it north of the Korean-Manchurian boundry last Monday, about 10 hours before the cease-fire became effective.

"Inside Korean Territory."

The United States replied today that the attack by a United States fighter plane under the U.N. command actually occurred "inside Korean territory approximately eight miles from the Yalu river." This, it said, was in the Korean combat zone.

The United States reply was contained in a note sent by messenger from the United States embassy to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow. The State Department released the text of that note plus an unofficial translation of the Soviet note.

There was no denial on the part of the United States that the big Russian transport, an IL-12 type aircraft, had been destroyed by fighter fire. In fact, the incident was fully disclosed by the U. N. at the time and jet pilot Capt. Ralph Parr, of Apple Valley, Calif., was credited with downing the plane. The issue raised by the Russians was over where the attack occurred.

They delayed filing their complaint for four days. This led State Department officials to speculate that perhaps the Russians were seeking to divert attention from another plane shooting incident of last Wednesday.

U. S. Bomber Shot Down.

In this case the United States charged that an Air Force B-50 was shot down by MIG-15 fighters off the Siberian coast and that the Russians picked up survivors from the sea.

A note to Moscow yesterday protested the incident and asked information on the supposed survivors. The Russians charged, in that case, that the bomber violated Soviet territory.

In the note on the L-12, the United States told Russia this nation "can only deplore the loss of life incurred in this incident."

"In view of the fact, however, that the incident occurred in the Korean zone of hostilities," the American note added, "the responsibility therefor must rest with those Soviet authorities who flew the Soviet aircraft through Korean territory."

Meanwhile, two Senators complained bitterly that the United States had been outfoxed.

'Another Case of Stupidity.'

Senator Flanders (Rep.), Vermont, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said that letting the Soviet Union tell the world first about the B-50 incident in the Sea of Japan was "just another case of stupidity at the Pentagon or the State Department, or both."

Senator Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said, "I think it's mistake to let the Russians and Communists get the jump on us so many times. It puts us continually in the position of answering Communist propaganda when we could be out first with the real acts."

Flanders said pro-Communist or even neutral peoples could "get the impression that the Soviet is telling the truth and that we're trying to get out of an incident."

Both Senators expressed their opinions in interviews.

The United States case on the B-50 was bolstered by the testimony of the only confirmed survivor, Capt. John Ernest Roche, who was picked up by a United States destroyer after 22 hours in the sea.

Roche said in Tokyo early today the American plane was attacked "without provocation" by one or two Russian jets at a time when there was "no possible chance" that it was closer than 40 miles to Siberia.

On Regular Route, Reds Say.

The Russian note on the shooting down of the transport plane said it was attacked near

MERCURY LIKELY TO STAY AT 100 OVER WEEKEND

Thundershowers Bring Some Relief in County—Mid-90 Readings Forecast Monday.

A weekend of 100-degree temperatures was predicted today by Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren, continuing a five-day stretch of 100 or more. He forecast temperatures in the mid-90s for Monday.

Inquests will be held to determine whether heat caused the deaths yesterday of Lewis Smith, 7022 Tulane avenue, University City, and Mrs. Walter Diepenbrock, 2707B South Tenth street.

Smith, 43 years old, collapsed at his cleaning shop at 808 Hamilton avenue and was dead on arrival at City Hospital. Mrs. Diepenbrock, 58, was found by her husband unconscious in bed, and pronounced dead at the hospital. He said she had been ill and complained of the heat.

Scattered thundershowers brought some relief to St. Louis county areas last night. Webster Groves's .02 inches of rain last evening cut the temperature to a pleasant 74 degrees. In the city, the average overnight temperature was 82.9, almost four degrees lower than night before last.

Only two years, 1934 and 1936, had 100-degree spells longer than five consecutive days, Wahlgren noted. St. Louis's 102 degrees at 3:15 p.m. yesterday was the hottest for the date, and records begin with 1836.

The month ended yesterday was the hottest July here since 1936 and the driest since 1947.

Wahlgreen recorded a mean temperature of 82.8 for July, a figure 4 degrees above normal and 0.2 degrees warmer than July 1952. Hottest July averages here were in 1936 and 1901, both averaging 87.4. Only .72 inches of rain fell at the downtown weather office last month, a drouth compared to the 3.15 inches in July last year.

Treated at city and county hospitals for heat exhaustion yesterday were Daniel Hart, 6-week-old son of Mrs. Myrtle Hart, 2415A South Broadway; Arist Kotsiras, 3866 Shaw boulevard; Harold M. Gaskin, Negro, 3006 Pine street, and Walter A. Blank, 7567 Drexel drive, University City.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1 (UP) —Motorist James Fagan signaled for a left turn yesterday and an oncoming automobile struck his arm. He suffered a broken wrist.

Armed Robber Forces 20 Cafe Customers to Eat Ham, Eggs

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (UP)— William Kampf, a paroled reformatory inmate, faced assault and robbery charges today for pulling one of New York's zaniest holdups.

Kampf walked into a diner in Brooklyn, pulled a pistol and forced the proprietor and his helper to serve ham and eggs, free, to 20 customers. Those who were not hungry were persuaded to down the food by a wave of Kampf's pistol.

Finally the youth took $70 out of the cash register and fled in his automobile. Police traced the car to his apartment and arrested him.

FERGUSON SAYS COMPROMISE AID BILL WILL GET FAST SENATE OK

Threatened Attempt to Restore Limit on Use of Shipbuilding Funds Expected to Be Easily Defeated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — Senator Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, said the Senate would give quick approval today to a compromise foreign aid bill providing $6,652,422,390 for the fiscal year that began July 1.

"It had a close squeak in the House yesterday but we gave it a 69-10 margin early Thursday morning and that's fairly safe," Ferguson who helped engineer the final compromise, said in an interview.

He referred to the vote by which the Senate passed its original version of the bill.

A threat to try to send the big money bill back to conference came from Senator Smathers (Dem.), Florida.

He got the Senate to accept a rider that would have required that half the funds for shipbuilding under the vast military and economic aid program be spent in the United States.

However, the Senate-House conference that accepted many Senate increases and additions dropped this provision. Opponents said ship construction costs in this country are much higher than overseas.

Because of the anxiety of Senators to clear the decks for possible early adjournment, Smathers faced probable defeat.

House passage came on a 237-156 vote.

The "close squeak" resulted from a move by Representative Passman (Dem.), Louisiana, to send the money bill back to conference again with instructions to slice out another $211,000,000 of military aid to Europe.

This was beaten by only eight votes, 200-192.

In its present form the bill is about $650,000,000 below President Eisenhower's "honest minimum" request, but $455,000,000 above the total originally allowed by the House.

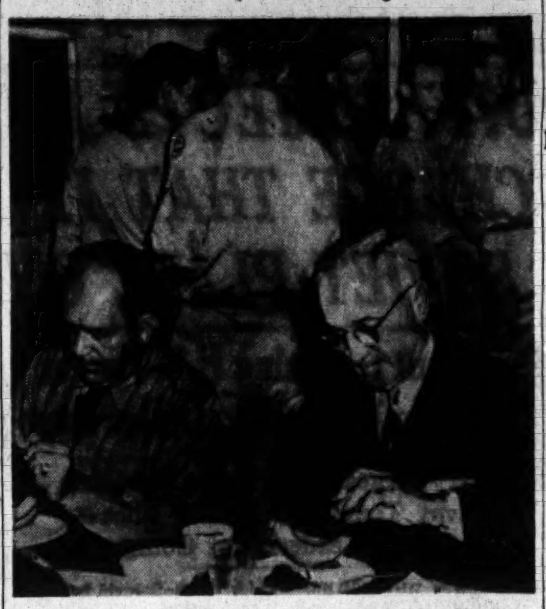

The Senate today unanimously approved Eisenhower's request for authority to send surplus food to friendly peoples abroad to relieve famine or meet other emergencies.

The compromise bill allowing use of up to $100,000,000 worth of surpluses until next March 15 was passed by the House yesterday, 143-15.

The House today approved a $200,000,000 fund for use by the President for reconstruction programs in non-Communist Korea.

The bill, a compromise version of legislation previously approved by House and Senate, was sent back to the Senate for expected quick approval. The money will come from appropriations already made for the Defense Department.

Ex-Capt. Truman Breakfasts With His Old Battery at Camp

Former President Has a Soldier's Fare of Eggs and Sausage at Training Center of Missouri Guard.

By THEODORE P. WAGNER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn., Aug. 1—Old Soldier Harry Truman ate a soldier's breakfast here today with present-day members of his old outfit, Battery D, 129th Field Artillery Batallion, Missouri National Guard.

The former President, World War 1 captain and commander of the battery, sat down to cantaloupe, scrambled eggs, milk, cereal, sausage, toast, jam and coffee. After visiting informally with officers and enlisted men, D Battery's former commander departed to keep an appointment with newspaper men from Missouri and Kansas here to view the annual Thirty-fifth Division parade and review.

Truman arrived late yesterday from Casper, Wyo., where he visited the air arm of the Missouri National Guard, the 131st Fighter-Bomber Wing. Flying in National Guard planes, the Truman party included Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., State Senators William E. Hilsman and Robert Pentland of St. Louis; Mayor Stanley I. Dale of St. Joseph; Maj. Gen. Ralph Truman, the former President's cousin, who commanded the Thirty-fifth Division when it was mobilized for World War II service, and the following Kansas officials, State Treasurer Richard T. Fadley, State Auditor George Robb and Secretary of State Paul Shanahan.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri and Gov. Edward F. Arn of Kansas did not make the trip, having departed for the West Coast to attend the Governors' conference in Seattle tomorrow. Gov. C. Elmer Anderson of Minnesota stayed over to welcome Truman, and will fly to Seattle tomorrow.

Following his arrival yesterday, Truman witnessed a night demonstration of fire power portraying the weapons and supporting fire of an infantry battalion. The demonstration was by the second battalion, 137th Infantry, Kansas.

Division officers and a delegation from Minnesota's Democratic-Farmer-Labor party met the former president at a reception held in the post airplane hangar after the fire power demonstration. Hosts at the reception were Maj. Gen. John C. McLaughlin of Sedalia, Thirty-Fifth Division commander; Maj. Gen. A. D. Sheppard, Adjutant General of Missouri, and Maj. Gen. Joe Nickell, Adjutant General of Kansas.

Training was suspended for the weekend and truck convoys departed for recreation areas. Minneapolis and Duluth were included in the trips.

Yesterday members of the 138th Infantry, St. Louis regiment, dashed through squad firing tests on specially equipped ranges. As the soldiers crossed fields and moved cautiously through woods, bobbing targets, manned from distant control points, made their appearance and demolition charges were set off.

Firing service ammunition, the advancing troops blazed away until the targets dropped from view. Umpires and advisers accompanied the attackers, emphasizing safety.

Next week, the final phase of training, will be given over to work in the tactical areas by rifle companies and mortar platoons. Training will cover preparation for tests in which the units are graded.

LATIN AMERICANS FAVOR LIMITING PARLEY TO KOREA

Efforts in U.N. to Broaden Post-Truce Conference Appear Likely to Fail.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 1—Latin American members of the United Nations favor limiting discussion in the post-armistice political conference to be held this fall to matters directly concerned with Korea, it was learned yesterday. They are reported ready to press for such an agenda limitation when the General Assembly reconvenes on Aug. 17.

Since this is in line with the announced position of Prime Minister Nehru of India and the probable, though unannounced, position of the United States, it appears that any efforts to broaden the scope of the conference when the Assembly meets will fail. There are 20 votes in what is generally known as the "Latin American bloc."

What has troubled many delegates and others here is the wording of that article of the armistice agreement which calls for the political conference. It says it shall be convened "to settle through negotiations the questions of the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc." What the South and Central American governments do not want to do is to go into that "etc."

Tentative Decision.

This decision and others were made tentatively at an informal luncheon meeting Thursday. It could not be learned who attended or where the meeting was held, but an informed source said that "most" of the 20 governments were represented.

There was general agreement at that time also as to the composition of the conference, another difficult problem that the Assembly will be called upon to solve. The Latin Americans would like to see this line-up at the conference table:

Communist — North Korea, Red China, the Soviet Union, Poland and-or Czechoslovakia.

Non-Communist—South Korea, the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Australia, Colombia and India.

Colombia is the only Latin American country which sent troops to fight in Korea.

Nationalist China Omitted.

Such a 12-nation conference would satisfy those, and they are a majority, who do not want the conference to become unwieldy. But observers here immediately pointed out one glaring omission — Nationalist China. One of the five permanent members of the Security Council, it exercises veto power in that body, and is certainly deeply concerned about any Korean settlement.

It is believed also that the Philippines will seek a voice in these discussions.

Another point that could bring about a fight on the floor of the Assembly is whether or not the Korean question should be referred to the Political Committee. It is understood that Assembly President Lester B. Pearson favors plenary sessions only. The Latin American group is understood to prefer having the Political Committee discuss the question and report back to the Assembly.

The difference in procedure would appear academic since all Assembly members are also represented on the committee. Chairmanship of the latter, however, is held by Joao Carlos Munis of Brazil.

EUROPE LEADERS PAY TRIBUTE TO SENATOR TAFT

Although Differing With His Foreign Policies, Statesmen Praise His Integrity, Courage.

LONDON, Aug. 1 (UP)—Europe paid its respects to Senator Robert A. Taft today as a statesman of fearless honesty and integrity even though his foreign policies often had met only disapproval.

Several British newspapers speculated that Taft's death would weaken the Eisenhower administration. They called him an intelligent but unimaginative politician who harked back to the days before the United States became the leading world power.

One British newspaper said Taft was "so honest it sometimes hurt."

The Marquees of Salisbury, Britain's acting Foreign Secretary, sent condolences to Taft's widow, in Washington.

"A Grievous Gap."

The Manchester Guardian said Taft had "one of the supreme political careers of our time . . . His loss leaves a grievous gap which no one can fill; the balance of American public life has suddenly been altered, with results that may stream across the world."

The Times of London said Taft's "dry manner and unostentatious ways clothed a toughness and truth of character that won him great loyalty. It is strange to think that his death may weaken the President's already uncertain control over Congress."

French newspapers devoted considerable space to biographies of the Ohio Senator without criticizing his policies although some papers recalled that the French did not approve of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The left-wing publication Combat said "a certain courage is needed to be reactionary. Taft had it supremely."

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said Taft was a man of "great intellectual and moral qualities whose death would be a great loss to his party and his country."

Serious Disagreement.

But Bidault said "it is no secret that we were frequently in serious disagreement with Senator Taft on foreign policy."

Former French Premier Rene Mayer said "the United States and the free world have lost a political figure of high moral stature who commanded the respect of even his adversaries."

A Moscow radio broadcast monitored here, said:

"According to London radio, the prominent member of the United States Senate, Taft, died today."

GENOA, Italy, Aug. 1 (AP)—"Senator Taft's death may weaken the Republican party," said Alberto Tarchiani, Italian ambassador to Washington, on his arrival yesterday aboard the liner Andrea Doria.

Tarchiani said "American political life has lost an important personality who in the last few months has inspired Eisenhower's policy."

JERUSALEM, Aug. 1 (AP) — The announcer of Hebrew radio station Voice of Israel last night warmly eulogized Senator Taft, stressing his understanding and sympathy for the problems of the Zionist movement and the Jewish state.

West Reich Expresses Regret Over Death of Taft.

BONN, Aug. 1 (AP) — The West German government last night officially expressed its regret about the death of Senator Taft.

The government said Chancellor Konrad Adenauer during his visit to America last spring conferred twice with Taft and was "distressed" at his passing.

The Socialist party referred to Senator Taft as "a great American leader" and said he had spent much of his life in defending the concept of individual freedom.

'Absolutely Unprovoked Attack,' Co-Pilot of Downed B-50 Says

Capt. John E. Roche Asserts 'We Were Definitely 40 Miles From Russian Territory'—Claims Attacker Fired First.

By STAN CARTER

TOKYO, Aug. 1 (AP)—"It was absolutely an unprovoked attack, 40 miles from Russian territory," said the co-pilot of an American B-50 shot down at sea in a Russian jet attack off Siberia Wednesday.

Capt. John E. Roche, at a news conference today, contradicted Moscow charges that the big bomber and its 17-man crew were over Siberia near the Red naval base, Vladivostok, and that the Americans fired first.

Roche told correspondents:

"We were definitely 40 miles from Russian territory. Our navigation is almost infallible. It was visual, Loran and Q-13 (radar). We weren't any closer than 40 miles."

Radar and Loran are electronic ranging and directional devices used for plotting position.

Roche, 28 years old, of Washington, D. C., said a MIG jet with Russian insignia flashed in and blasted one of the bomber's four engines. Then so quickly that it might have been a different MIG, an engine on the other wing was shot up.

Wing Falls Off.

The right wing fell off and the big plane crumpled into the Sea of Japan. The crew was ordered to bail out.

Roche was the only crewman rescued by United States ships. The State Department in protesting the attack to Russia, said it had information some of the 16 others had been picked up by Russian vessels. However, Roche said he did not see any Red craft in the area.

Crew members of rescue planes which searched the area said they saw several Russian PT-type boats which may have picked up other crew members.

Roche said the American destroyer Picking, which plucked him from the sea on the predawn darkness Thursday — 22 hours after the crash — had stopped a Russian "trawler or tug boat" and questioned the crew but saw no indication that it had any survivors aboard.

"It must have been about 6:15 Wednesday morning when it happened," Roche said.

"International Waters."

"I was sitting there relaxed . . . It didn't enter my mind at all we might be attacked. We'd been in that area before and never seen any MIGs. It was international waters.

"I had just lit a cigarette when our No. 1 engine was hit and caught fire."

Roche said a gunner on the B-50 fired back at the first MIG—a three- to five-second burst of machine-gun fire—but he did not know whether the MIG was hit.

"No, nobody issued an order to fire. No order was needed. We were under attack," he said.

"I never saw the second MIG at all. It got our No. 4 engine 40 seconds to a minute after the first attack on the No. 1 engine.

"I feathered No. 4 and looked out. There was a hole through the prop about that big (six inches across—about the size that would be made by cannon fire).

"We were at 20,000 feet, heading 95 degrees—almost due east.

"Capt. Stanley Keith O'Kelly (of Topeka, Kan.) rang the alarm bell to bail out. The right wing came off.

Thrown Into Nose.

"I was thrown forward into the nose.

"I pulled myself up and climbed back into the cockpit on my hands.

"The engineer and navigator were gone. They must have already bailed out. The plane shook. You could see daylight through the aircraft.

"I dived out past the nose wheel. I smelled smoke and looked up to see if my chute was on fire. It was open and there was nothing wrong with it. Then my feet touched the water.

"I was about 75 feet from the wreckage of the plane. The water all around the wreckage was on fire. I swam backward to get away from it.

"I had on my Mae West (life jacket). I found a mattress and used it as a raft.

"I heard somebody holler. I started swimming toward the sound and found Capt. O'Kelly. We stayed together for the next 11½ hours—until we spotted a B-29 flying over.

"I fired my flares and marked the area with sea marker dye. I kept backing up, to keep out of the dye. I was 75 or 80 yards away from Capt. O'Kelly when the B-29 dropped a lifeboat.

"O'Kelly was a little weak, I think.

"I swam to the boat. It was 150 or 200 yards from O'Kelly. I climbed into it. I had cramps and was violently sick. I couldn't move. I never got a chance to get to O'Kelly after that."

Heard Others Yelling.

Roche said he did not see any other crewmen, but after they had been in the water about a half hour, he and O'Kelly heard somebody yelling.

"It was so far away and we were weak. We had no way of recognizing the voice," he said.

Roche was bruised and cut about the neck and head by the first explosion in the plane. He wore a bandage on the right side of his head. His right eye was swollen, and his neck was bruised. Air Force doctors said the injuries were minor.

Roche said he believed the engineer and navigator and probably the gunners parachuted.

He said he did not see any vessels of any kind until he spotted the Picking, almost 22 hours after the B-50 was shot down.

"I got the Very pistol out of the hatch in the lifeboat and fired a shot (flare)," he said. "I was skepical about signaling. I thought it might be the Russians and I wouldn't have much chance.

"The Picking came and got me out of the water."

REFUGEE BILL PASSED, SENT TO EISENHOWER

Senate, House Approve Compromise to Admit 214,000 — McCarran Objections Fail.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —The Senate passed and sent to the President today an emergency immigration bill providing for the admission of 214,000 Iron Curtain refugees and other aliens in the next three years.

The compromised measure was approved in the Senate by a voice vote which overrode arguments by Senator McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, that it involved risks to the nation's security.

The House had approved the bill last night by a vote of 190 to 44.

Eisenhower had originally asked for the admission of 240,000 immigrants in two years.

The compromise bill was approved earlier in the day by a Senate-House committee named to reconcile differing versions of the measure passed by the two chambers.

The House first passed a bill earlier this week to permit 217,000 refugees and other aliens to enter the United States in the next three years. The Senate passed a bill to admit 209,000.

The conference committee struck a compromise between these two figures and also on the more troublesome issue of whether the legislation would be confined only to refugees or whether other aliens also would be admitted.

Under the final version, those admitted will be largely refugees, mostly from behind the Iron Curtain, but a limited number of Italians, Greeks and Dutch who have relatives in this country also will be able to seek entrance.

The bill also makes provision for a small number of Asiatics and Arabs and permits 4000 orphans from any part of the world to be admitted.

AIR FORCE TO RETURN KOREA MURDER SUSPECT TO U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP) The Air Force bowed to court order today and said it will bring former Sgt. Robert W. Toth back from Korea to contest charges that he murdered a Korean civilian.

The Air Force announced that "steps were being taken to return" the 21-year-old former airman to the United States. Toth will be taken before the United States District Court here for a hearing on his habeas corpus petition challenging the constitutionality of his arrest by the Air Force.

Armed forces police arrested Toth in Pittsburgh last May after his discharge and flew him to Korea for trial in connection with the killing of the Korean. Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled the arrest violated Toth's constitutional rights.

RECALLS DECISION BY TAFT TO BACK PRESIDENT TO HILT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, told the Senate yesterday that Robert Taft made a decision at his Murray Bay, Canada, summer home last summer to give all his support to Dwight D. Eisenhower, who defeated him for the Republican presidential nomination.

Smith, who has a summer place near Taft's, said Taft had showed him three piles of letters written him after his defeat.

The first pile came from people who wanted Taft to continue his public disagreements with Eisenhower on such matters as foreign aid.

The second came from people who wanted Taft to do nothing at all during the election campaign—maintain a hands-off attitude.

The third pile was written by people who wanted Taft to throw all his support to Eisenhower.

SENATORS OPEN HEARING ON RISE IN DEBT CEILING

siderable opposition to the debt bill in the Senate, particularly among the Democrats. Senate Democrats are in a majority now, 47-46 over the Republicans, because of the deaths of Senators Charles Tobey (Rep.), New Hampshire, and Robert A. Taft (Rep.), Ohio.

The Finance Committee session was held with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey as the star Administration witness.

He had a tough selling job on his hands. More than half of the 15 committee members were on record as being against the proposed increase in the 275-billion-dollar ceiling, or at least highly doubtful about it at this time.

Most of the other legislative business has been cleaned up.

Foreign Aid Bill.

A compromise $6,652,422,390 foreign aid money bill, approved finally by the House 237-156 yesterday, is up for Senate concurrence today.

So is a House-approved compromise measure to admit 214,000 aliens as special-quota immigrants in the next three years. A bill to authorize shipment of $100,000,000 worth of surplus farm products to needy peoples abroad was passed by the Senate and sent to the White House today.

Before both the Senate and House is a catch-all compromise bill which includes authority to spend $200,000,000 for relief work in war-ravaged South Korea.

Measures still being worked on in Senate-House conferences include appropriation for the State, Commerce and Justice Departments and a bill to extend the reciprocal trade law until next June 12.

As to the debt limit bill, there appeared to be three alternatives before the Senate Finance Committee:

1. Pigeonhole it for the time being.
2. Order full hearings on it next week.
3. Work out a compromise for a temporary extension or a smaller boost.
4. Report it out to the floor for debate today or next week.

The first seemed to be the best bet as the committee assembled, but there was some feeling that the persuasive powers of Millikin and Humphrey could not be written off completely in advance.

George a Key Figure.

A key figure is Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, senior Democrat on the committee and the oldest Senator in point of service. He attended the White House conference Thursday at which legislative leaders were told the debt ceiling proposal was coming.

Afterward, he indicated he might be open to persuasion to give his support. Such backing probably would be worth several votes in committee and a considerable number on the floor.

However, after a round of conferences yesterday with Democratic leaders, George announced he believed the issue sould be postponed. He said he thought the Democrats were unanimous ih this view.

Congress can go ahead and adjourn but let the President know it stands ready to return in September or October, at his call, if action on the ceiling then seems "imperative," he said.

Several other committee members said they were opposed to the ceiling boost, but some of them did not entirely close the door.

U.S. TAX LIEN FILED AGAINST MURDERED RESTAURANT MAN

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 — The Federal Government filed an income tax lien for $134,388 yesterday against Michael (Barney) Prendergast, owner of a chain of New York restaurants who was killed Wednesday morning in a park on Riverside drive. The lien listed nine sums the dead man allegedly owed for 1945, plus penalties.

Police have discarded the theory that Prendergast was killed by the same person who killed two truck drivers on the Pennsylvania turnpike a few days before. Ballistic experts reported that a comparison of the .32 caliber bullets did not match.

JUDGE LEIBOWITZ QUITS RACE FOR MAYOR OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz of Brooklyn announced today his withdrawal from the mayoralty race.

Leibowitz, a Democrat, was the candidate of the Fusion party, a small political organization organized in 1933 to support the coalition election of Fiorello H. La Guardia.

The judge said he had been informed it would cost nearly $1,000,000 to conduct a successful campaign. The raising of any such amount is "out of the question." Leibowitz said in a statement. He gave no indorsement to any of the other candidates.

PRESIDENT OK'S KOREA REBUILDING PLAN, DULLES SAYS

embassy representatives. The sessions were started soon after the Korean war began so that the United States might inform the Allied governments of progress and strategy in the conflict and on occasion consult with them.

Dulles assured the governments that the defense treaty he expects to negotiate with President Rhee would not prevent a later agreement on withdrawal of American troops from Korea —if that should prove to be desirable. He said the treaty is expected to provide for the stationing of troops in Korea.

The major stated purpose of Dulles's mission is to work out with Rhee the wording of the defense pact wihch President Eisenhower promised the South Korean leader in the course of negotiations to get him to go along with a truce.

The United States had proposed that the principal commitment in the defense treaty should be a promise to consult on common action in event of actual or threatened new Red aggression against South Korea.

However, seeking a stronger tie with the United States, Rhee asked that the treaty include a provision for stationing American forces in Korea. Dulles has said this would permit, but not require, the stationing of United States forces there.

Other issues seem certain to arise. Chief among them is the threat repeatedly made by Rhee to resume the war himself if after 90 days the projected political conference has failed to bring Communist agreement on the unification of Korea. At the moment diplomats see little prospect that unification will be achieved within the time limit.

W. W. REMINGTON APPEALS FOR PERJURY CASE REVERSAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Counsel for William W. Remington, former Government economist serving a prison term for perjury, yesterday asked the United States Court of Appeals to reverse the conviction.

AMERICAN BOATS RELEASED, MISTAKEN FOR SMUGGLERS

HAVANA, Aug. 1 (UP)—Two Florida-operated banana boats which were fired on by Cuban planes Wednesday in the belief they were running guns for last week's revolt were released last night.

Cuban authorities said the cargoes and papers of the Benson and the Babe were "in order."

Three crewmen injured when Cuban patrol planes strafed the Babe were brought here by plane for medical treatment. Doctors said none of them was in serious condition and only one was hit by a bullet. The others fell when they ran for cover.

MAINE FOREST FIRE RAGES UNCHECKED, FIREMAN KILLED

SANFORD, Me., Aug. 1 (AP) —A spectacular forest fire in which one person perished raged unchecked today over an area six miles long and two miles wide.

Six hundred firefighters from 23 Maine and neighboring New Hampshire communities battled to confine the flames to thickly wooded sections of this southwestern corner of Maine.

Fanned by winds that reached moderate gale force in gusts, the blaze broke loose yesterday. Fireman Corydon Goodwin, 66 years old, perished at his stalled utility truck on a logging road.

Deputy Forest Commissioner Austin Wilkins said Goodwin's death was the first time a man had been killed while actually fighting a Maine woods fire. He said the 16 victims of Maine's disastrous 1947 forest fires were persons fleeing fire scenes.

Police quoted Miss Horner, 28 years old, as saying she spent the cash in six months and had added: "It wasn't worth it."

Appointments to the traffic appeal board provided by the new traffic code to hear appeals from regulations promulgated by Traffic Commissioner Charles G. Gonter were announced yesterday by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker.

The appointees and their terms are: Clem F. Storckman, attorney and member of the old board of freeholders that proposed a new city charter, four years; Carl Giessow, head of the Chamber of Commerce traffic bureau and consultant on traffic to the Police Department, three years; John C. Flotte, a vice president of the Bremen Bank & Trust Co., two years.

John F. Martin, assistant treasurer of Monsanto Chemical Co., two years, and Roscoe C. Hobbs, chairman of the board of the Chamber of Commerce, one year. All subsequent appointments will be for four-year terms.

Aldermen Everett J. Taylor, Twenty-seventh Ward Democrat and chairman of the aldermanic traffic committee, is an ex officio member.

Members will be sworn into office Aug. 11. They will have the right, on the appeal of any aggrieved person, to modify or set aside any regulation established by the traffic commissioner.

That officer, under the new code, may make and enforce regulations in emergencies and special conditions and is also authorized to place traffic signs and signals, designate stop intersections, establish parking limits on major streets.

His regulations will remain in effect for six months unless they are set aside by the appeal board or by ordinance.

YOUTH DROWNS; TRIED TO AID COMPANIONS IN BOAT MISHAP

BAR HARBOR, Maine, Aug. 1 (AP)—A sailboat capsized in the choppy Atlantic last night and a 17-year-old youth perished swimming for aid for his three teen-age companions.

The three reached shore with the aid of life preservers but the body of Gordon (Jerry) Jenkins of Bar Harbor — who told the others to wait while he went for help—was not found.

Treated for shock and exposure, but in good condition, were Charlotte Thorne, 14, granddaughter of Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago; Irene Frail, 15, of Palm Beach, Fla., and Lawrence Thompson, 17, of West Hartford, Conn.

GIRL, 14, INJURED BY TRUCK

Anne Davis, 1301A Carr street, suffered head injuries last night when she ran into the side of a truck while crossing Twelfth boulevard at Carr street.

Alfred C. Lee, a roofer, 1441B Blair avenue, driver of the truck, who continued on after the accident, told police later that he was unaware the 14-year-old girl had been struck. He was arrested after an attendant at a nearby filling station, who saw the accident, followed the truck and informed police where it was parked. The girl is a Negro.

Newman Leaves Prison

—United Press Telephoto.

ART NEWMAN (right), one-time chief lieutenant of the notorious Birger gang of southern Illinois, takes his leave of WARDEN JOSEPH RAGEN yesterday as he leaves Stateville Penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., after 26 years in prison. He originally was sentenced to life imprisonment, plus 114 years, for murder and other crimes after turning state's evidence against his boss, Charley Birger, who was hanged.

ONE HURT AS FREIGHT TRAIN LEAVES TRACK

38 Cars of Illinois Central Piled Five Deep in Wreck Near Mounds (Ill.) Station.

One man was injured and a number of railroad cars demolished today when a southbound Illinois Central freight train was wrecked at Mounds, Ill., about 150 miles south of St. Louis. The accident occurred about 100 feet north of the Mounds depot.

Conductor Claude Honer of Carbondale suffered a shoulder injury when he was thrown from one end of the caboose to the other.

Thirty-eight of the approximately 100 cars in the train were derailed when a wheel fell off one of the cars in the middle of the train. Witnesses said some cars were piled up four and five deep. Three carloads of meat were scattered over a wide area.

More than 400 feet of track was torn up and one 60-foot section of rail was thrown 100 feet to the edge of Front street. The wreckage covered the northbound track and it was estimated it would take workers from 24 to 48 hours to clear the debris.

JULIUS O. ADLER NAMED HEAD OF U.M.T. STUDY COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) —Julius Ochs Adler, vice president and general manager of the New York Times, today was named chairman of the National Securitey Training Commission.

Adler was designated as chairman after he and two other civilians took the oath of office in White House ceremonies this morning.

Joining Adler at the sewaring in ceremony were Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Corporation, and Warren H. Atherton, a lawyer from Stockton, Calif., and a former national commander of the American Legion.

The commission has been assigned by the President to study anew the possibility of adopting universal military training for American youths.

RETIRES AFTER 33 YEARS

Henry W. Weilmuenster, an employe of Sears Roebuck and Co. for more than 33 years, retired yesterday under the company's voluntary retirement policy. He started with the firm in Chicago and came to St. Louis about 25 years ago.

Weilmuenster, who lives at 3522 Cambridge avenue, Maplewood, had been in charge of the building material department of the company's pool stock warehouse since 1937. During his tenure with the firm, he won more than $3000 in prizes through its suggestion system.

BLAST AT SUN-TIMES PLANT

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (UP)—An explosion occurred at the Chicago Sun-Times building last night, apparently caused by a black powder bomb encased in cardboard.

The missile had apparently been thrown against the side of the newspaper building, police said. No one was injured and no damage was caused.

FOUND DEAD, PISTOL ON FLOOR

Andrew Jones, 4108 Enright avenue, was found shot to death on a couch in the bedroom of his home yesterday. He had been under a doctor's care for high blood pressure.

Jones, a Negro, was found by his wife, Viola, upon her return home from work. He had been shot in the right temple. A 32-caliber revolver was found on the floor by the couch.

Airport Hazard—Deer.

WARWICK, Va., Aug. 1 (AP) —Virginia's dry weather is having its effect on animals—and airplanes, too. The pilot of a Piedmont Airlines plane narrowly averted a collision with two deer at Patrick Henry Airport near here. The deer, leaving the parched woods near the airport, had wandered onto the landing field and were eating grass that grows between the runways.

NEW PHONE OFFICE OPEN IN NORTHERN PART OF COUNTY

The new $2,500,000 Riverview office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., on Chambers road and Duke drive, north St. Louis county, was formally opened last night as 3000 new dial telephones were cut into service. Eighteen hundred of these customers had had manual service.

About 70 residents of the area served by the new office and telephone company officers were guests at a dinner at the Bellefontaine Methodist Church at which J. R. Peterson, Missouri-Illinois general manager for the telephone company, emphasized the importance of the new facilities in providing speedier service for customers in the north part of the county.

About 4800 customers now being served through the Evergreen office of the company in north St. Louis will be transferred to the new Riverview office in the next several weeks, thus permitting additional service to prospective customers in the Evergreen area.

EAST SIDE JUDGE DENIES PETITION TO END LIFE TERM

A habeas corpus petition by Charles Evans of East St. Louis for release from a life sentence given in 1939 on a charge of criminal assault, was denied by Circuit Judge William Juergens at Belleville yesterday.

Evans, who is 50 years old, said at a hearing two weeks ago that policemen had beaten him before his trial, that he had no attorney, and that he pleaded guilty on promise of a five-year sentence. Previously he had been acquitted three times on charges of robbing and assaulting persons in a "lovers' lane" near East St. Louis. He was convicted of larceny, escaped from prison and three days later was arrested on the assault charge.

Judge Juergens ruled that Evans offered no evidence of a police beating or a promise of short sentence, and said the law does not require a defense attorney in non-capital offense cases.

KANSAS CITY LABOR LEADER CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 1 (AP)—A Jackson County grand jury yesterday indicted Willard Wilkinson, a labor leader here, on a charge of felonious assault.

Wilkinson is president and business agent of Local 663 of the heavy construction laborers union.

He was accused of beating Leland O. Kinser, a carpenters' union organizer, in an argument over union jurisdiction Aug. 11, 1952.

Kinser told a congressional investigating committee here June 30 that he suffered a shoulder fracture in the altercation.

MRS. L. WADE CHILDRESS SUED BY FORMER EMPLOYE

Mrs. L. Wade Childress, 9030 Clayton road, Richmond Heights, was sued for $35,000 damages in circuit court at Clayton yesterday by Miss Bess Culbertson, a former employe, as an outgrowth of injuries she suffered in a fall at the Childress home Dec. 4, 1951.

The petition alleged Miss Culbertson, who lives in southeast Missouri, slipped and fell on linoleum in a kitchen passageway when working as a domestic. She suffered spine and other injuries, permanently impairing her ability to earn a living, she alleged. Mrs. Childress is the widow of the former board chairman of Laclede Gas Co.

13 SEIZED IN GAMING RAID, LONG ACCOMPANIES SQUAD

Thirteen men were arrested in a raid by members of the police gambling squad, accompanied by I. A. Long, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, at a pool hall at 513 North Vandeventer avenue last night.

All were booked for appearance in police court Tuesday on charges of gambling by cards. Four of the men were playing cards on a cigar counter in the front of the establishment and the other nine were engaged in a poker game in a back room, police reported.

2 GIRLS KILLED IN FALLS FROM LEDGES ON PEAK

One, 17, Plunges to Death Going for Aid of 15-Year-Old in Colorado.

ESTES PARK, Colo., Aug. 1 (UP)—Two teen-age girls on a summer camping trip plunged to their deaths from the ledges of 11,500-foot Little Matterhorn mountain.

One of the girls was killed while hurrying to get help for the other.

The girls, Kathryn Rees, 15 years old, Cheyenne, Wyo., and Sandra Miller, 17, Park Ridge, Ill., were part of a group of 10 teen-agers from one of the Cheley Colorado camps making a supervised hike up the mountain yesterday.

Kathryn fell from a ledge on the face of the mountain. She landed on sharp rocks 50 feet below. All but two of the girls had already passed the ledge before Kathryn lost her balance.

Sandra started down the mountain to bring help. One of two counsellors, Gretchen Degroot, La Grange, Ill., accompanied her. Miss Degroot said Sandra lost her footing on a ledge near the bottom of the mountain and fell 50 feet to another ledge.

A search party from Fern Lake lodge, four miles from the scene of the accidents, found the bodies of both girls. It was reported both had struck their heads in the falls.

The two girls had attended the girl's camp for a number of summers and were accustomed to climbing the mountains, although neither was termed an "expert" climber.

Rangers at the Rocky Mountain National Park said that the Little Matterhorn, 12 miles west of here, was not an exceptionally difficult mountain for climbing.

TAXICAB DRIVER ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF PROCURING

Herbert Smith, a taxicab driver living in the 1700 block Carr drive, was charged today with receiving the earnings of a prostitute, in a warrant issued by Assistant Circuit Attorney Fred Maher. Smith is a negro.

A young white woman complained to police that Smith accused her of withholding money from him and then beat her when both were passengers in a taxicab.

Smith was fined $20 last Monday on a charge of resisting arrest, a consequence of a short holiday declared by taxicab drivers in protest against alleged harassment by police. Smith and seven other drivers were arrested on charge of loistering. Patrolman Raymond Dowling testified that he subdued Smith with his night stick after Smith struck him on the jaw.

63 TRAFFIC COPS SHIFTED TO NEW CORNERS DOWNTOWN

Reassignment of 63 downtown traffic officers to different corners was completed this week under a new policy of periodic shifts of posts.

Maj. William Cibulka, head of the police traffic division, said it was felt that changes of stations from time to time would make for better enforcement of traffic regulations.

Some of the officers transferred had been on the same corners for many years. Cpl. John Cullinan, on duty at Seventh and Olive streets for 30 years, has become a roving supervisor throughout the business district. Patrolman Edward Boehmer, at Tenth and Olive for 27 years, now is stationed at Ninth and Locust streets.

EAST ST. LOUIS POLICEMEN, FIREMEN GET PAY RISE

Pay increases for East St. Louis policemen and firemen were authorized yesterday by the city council in conformity with a recently enacted state law establishing a $350-a-month minimum in cities of comparable size.

Under the new scale, retroactive to July 16, the lowest paid men will receive increases of $60 a month while the department heads will get $7, bringing their salaries to $550. There are 70 firemen and 70 policemen in the city.

The council prepared an ordinance for adoption next week putting a one-cent tax on cigarettes to aid in defraying the cost of the pay increases, estimated to be $7000 monthly.

MASSACHUSETTS SEIZES MILK FIRM TO AVOID STRIKE

BOSTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The commonwealth of Massachusetts was in the milk business today.

Gov. Christian A. Herter, using emergency powers to protect the public health and welfare against a threatened strike by 1200 milk wagon drivers and processing plant workers, last night ordered state seizure of 12 metropolitian milk companies.

He acted after the milk wagon drivers decided to strike at midnight to enforce demands for wage increases and fringe benefits.

The state flag was quickly hoisted over the 12 plants. A spokesman for the drivers promptly announced that deliveries would be made as usual.

Polish Aid to North Korea.

WARSAW, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Polish government passed a resolution Thursday to send aid to North Korea to hasten the counreconstruction after the devastations of war. Poland will send machines and technical aid.

UNION PROPOSES 3 IN CLERGY HEAR STRIKE ISSUES

Truckers Suggest Board Consist of Bishop Scarlett, Rabbi Isserman, Father Brown.

The AFL Teamsters Union today awaited a reply to its proposal that a fact-finding committee composed of three prominent St. Louis clergymen be established to hold hearings on the strike of drivers in the concrete industry and recommend terms for a settlement.

While the committee's findings would not be binding on either the union or the employers, under the union proposal, Harold J. Gibbons, trustee of the Teamsters Joint Council, said that "the board recommendations will carry the weight of public opinion and rejection by either group would place that group in an untenable position."

Under the union plan, the 20 issues involved in the eleven-week-old strike, including wages, would be submitted to a panel consisting of Bishop William Scarlett, former head of the Episcopal Diocese of eastern Missouri; Rabbi Ferdinand H. Isserman, of Temple Israel, and the Rev. Leo C. Brown S.J., an authority on labor problems and a member of the St. Louis University faculty.

Grand Jury Inquiry.

The proposal was turned over to Robert M. Guion, foreman of the circuit court grand jury which began an investigation of the strike Thursday.

In a letter to Guion, Gibbons said:

"Highly conscious of our responsibility to the community and in a sincere effort to end this strike, our union is prepared to offer this proposal. This constitutes a rock-bottom, below which the union cannot move."

Guion directed that copy of the proposal be sent to R. F. Powell, a spokesman for the Ready Mix and Materials Dealers' Association, which represents the 35 firms involved in the stoppage.

Michael J. Aubuchon, attorney for the association, told the Post-Dispatch today he could not comment on the union plan until he had a chance to study it and confer with his clients.

The union proposed that representatives of each side appear before the fact-finding committee to present their respective arguments, a process which should not take too long, Gibbons said, because each has stated its case so often.

Proposes Open Books.

Another section of the proposal said:

"The union is to agree to supply the fact-finding board any information requested by the board on wage rates, contract information or any other information requested. The company, likewise, to pledge co-operation to the board in the event it requests data on payrolls, profits, other pertinent data, etc. In other words, both sides to open their books, if requested by the fact-finding board."

The union earlier had turned down an arbitration plan offered by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker because it proposed that the outcome of the proceedings be binding, without a prior commitment from the employers that they would make their books available for examination as to their financial condition, if the union requested it. The employers accepted that arbitration plan with the understanding the books would be available if requested by the arbitrators.

So that, essentially, the difference between the Mayor's plan and that proposed by the union is that the latter makes acceptance of a finding compulsory for each side, while the union proposal does not.

Gibbons acknowledged that the employers had agreed to open their books if a majority of an arbitration board requested data on profits, adding, "It does not go as far as the union has, heretofore, requested, but in the interest of a settlement and with this type of machinery (fact-finding) we will accept the substitute."

The proposal, Gibbons continued, "represents a final all-out compromise on the part of our union" and "is a last ditch effort on our part to resolve this strike and it is dictated by the overwhelming public interest involved in this dispute."

The clergymen who were suggested as members of the fact-finding committee were not available for comment on whether they would serve.

FILLS UP GROCERY CART, THEN HOLDS UP CHECKER

A total of $340 was stolen last night from a Kroger store at 2204 State street, East St. Louis, by an armed man who filled up a grocery cart before the robbery, police reported.

Miss Barbara Shipley, 8206 State street, a checker, said the robber rolled the loaded cart up to the check-out stand, displayed a pistol, took the money and fled. He left the groceries.

Several shoppers in the store, and other employes at the rear of the store, were unaware a robbery had taken place.

EAST SIDE BUS LINE, UNION, MAYOR TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Striking bus drivers in East St. Louis and management representatives of the East St. Louis Lines, Inc., will be summoned to meet next Wednesday in the office of Mayor Alvin G. Fields in an attempt to resume negotiations, it was announced today.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. The bus strike began its second week today.

Housewives' Crusade to End Strike to Take Form Monday

Mrs. Mava Miller Plans March on City Hall —Jobless Workers' Families Tell of Hardships.

Saddening reports of destitution among the families of jobless construction workers continued to pour into the headquarters of the women's "crusade" to bring about a settlement of the concrete truck drivers' strike today.

Mrs. Mava Miller, who started demands for a prompt settlement snowballing yesterday, reported that she has received several threatening telephone calls, "apparently from drunks," at her home at 308 Newell drive, Ferguson.

The loosely functioning movement among wives of non-striking building craftsmen will begin to take form Monday, Mrs. Miller said today. Her present plan is for women interested in demonstrating against continuation of the strike to gather at City Hall, at a time yet to be designated, to get acquainted and decide on a course of action.

To Seek Talk With Mayor.

An attempt will be made to have an interview with Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, so that he may have a first-hand report on the plight of thousands of families whose breadwinners are out of work through no fault of their own.

Mrs. Miller said that many of the women with whom she talked today were heartily in favor of the proposal by the striking Teamsters' Union to submit the dispute to a fact-finding committee composed of Bishop William Scarlett, formerly head of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri; Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman, and the Rev. Leo C. Brown, S.J., of St. Louis University.

"They'll never get three more impartial men," Mrs. Miller said. "It's the best suggestion that's come up so far."

Struggle to Eat.

The struggle for survival during the 11-week-old strike of 550 drivers against 35 concrete companies was dramatized again today in sample reports of what some families are going through.

Mrs. William Peterson, 5966 Kennerly avenue, told of attempting to feed her family of six on one-half pound bologna and a loaf of bread. Breakfast today was held up for several hours until an employed daughter raised the money for a sackful of doughnuts.

With their gas and electricity cut and no funds to buy shoes and clothing preparatory to the opening of school, Mrs. Peterson said: "This thing's got me ready to scream."

Mrs. Edmund Clement, wife of a bricklayer, has rented out two rooms in her home at 8209 Toddy avenue, Wellston, and is boarding two children for a charitable agency to try to get by. Even with this income, the bills are piling up and the family is three months behind in its house payments.

Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, South Barat avenue, Ferguson, got a job but had to give it up when her daughter, two and one-half years old became ill. Her husband, a carpenter has been getting one or two days work a week. But they have had to draw upon savings and have only $20 left.

Mrs. Frank Swinko, 321 West Goetz avenue, Lemay, whose husband goes out daily "looking for any kind of a job," said "we're at the end of the line." She has cut down on food until she's ashamed to go into the store." The mother of three children, she agreed that wives should do something. She's particularly distressed because she and her family depend upon this season of the year to provide work for her husband, a carpenter, to earn enough money to tide them through other seasons.

Like Mrs. Miller, none of the thousands of families affected by the strike have seen a paycheck since mid-May or early June. Mrs. Miller has invited women who want to do something to get paychecks started again to telephone her at Victor 7-1357.

PILOT HURT IN PLANE CRASH IN COUNTY

Light Aircraft Drops Into Field During Storm — Hits Near a Home.

Robert L. Plummer, a civilian employe of the Army Quartermaster Corps, suffered a serious head injury yesterday when an airplane he had just recently purchased crashed in a thunderstorm in St. Louis county.

Plummer was flying alone, heading for Meramec airport, which is about three miles east of Vandover road, when the plane dropped into an open field about 250 yards from the home of Mrs. Fred V. Edmonds, on West Watson road west of Lindbergh boulevard. He had taken off from Lakeside airport.

Mrs. Edmonds said she first thought the sound of the crash was thunder. Then she heard a call for help, looked out the back door and saw Plummer walking into the yard. He was taken to St. Louis County Hospital and later to St. John's Hospital.

Plummer, who is 40 years old, lives at the Sixty-six Trailer Court, 10024 Watson road.

DOWD, STAFF TO ATTEND COURSE IN PROSECUTIONS

Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd and nine members of his staff will attend school during August for advanced courses in criminal prosecutions. Dowd, first assistant Raymond Bruntrager and Donald McClanahan will attend a school sponsored by the National Association of Prosecuting Attorneys in New York, Aug. 17 to 21.

Seven other assistants will take a special course at Northwestern University beginning Monday and running through Saturday. They are: Francis Kane, Theodore McMillian, Thomas P. Howe, Eugene P. Freeman, Fred Maher, Henry J. Fredericks and Marvin G. Marshall.

Tuition for the courses will be paid out of city funds. The men will pay their own traveling and living expenses.

U.S. CONCILIATOR TO MEDIATE KNAPP-MONARCH STRIKE

Negotiations in a contract dispute between the strike-closed Knapp-Monarch Co., electrical appliance firm, and AFL International Association of Machinists have been set for 10 a.m. Monday in the office of Federal Conciliator Arthur R. Hale in the Federal Building, Hale announced yesterday.

Production at the company's plant at 3501 Bent avenue has been at a standstill since Monday when machinists refused to work and members of three other unions observed the machinists' picket line. About 1000 employes are affected.

Chief stumbling block in discussions preceding the strike was a union demand for three weeks' vacation after 15 years' service instead of the present two weeks. The parties had neared an agreement on wages.

Floats 3 Miles on Inner Tube.

TRURO, Mass., Aug. 1 (AP)— Eight-year-old Lee Roudebush, daughter of a Navy lieutenant, was carried three miles off this Cape Cod shore on an inflated inner tube yesterday. Unable to find a boat, her father, W. T. Roudebush of Bethesda, Md., went after her aboard a plastic life raft. He had covered two miles when Coast Guards rescued both of them.

EAST ST. LOUISANS CHOKE ON FUMES, WOMAN OVERCOME

One woman was overcome and hundreds of East St. Louisans sneezed, coughed and rubbed watery eyes last night as gaseous fumes of undetermined origin settled down over a residential area.

More than 100 complaints were received at police headquarters after the fumes, described as acrid and pungent, filled an area around Eighteenth street and Missouri avenue.

Mrs. Ruth Ulmer, 1124 Tudor avenue, a Negro, was treated at St. Mary's Hospital for effects of the fumes. Other residents said they were left choking and gasping.

The fumes looked like a light fog, it was reported. Authorities today were trying to find out where they came from.

ADENAUER SUGGESTS EDC OFFER RUSSIA MUTUAL PACT

BONN, Aug. 1 (AP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenaur suggested last night that the proposed European Defense Community might offer Russia a mutual security pact.

Adenauer told reporters that EDC itself, by controlling the German "military potential" through merging it in a West European army, "would give the Russians the best guarantee against German militarism." He added that if the Soviets still did not feel secure, "we in the EDC would, I suppose, be prepared to offer them a mutual security pact."

West German government officials said last week that Adenauer had proposed to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that Western Europe arrange a security pact with Russia. Dulles later was quoted as saying the chancellor had made no such proposal.

Lyle Talbot Divorce Off.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1 (AP) — Actor Lyle Talbot and his fourth wife aren't splitting up after all. In court for a temporary alimony hearing yesterday, they left the judge's chambers holding hands and announced their reconciliation. Mrs. Margaret Talbot sued for divorce eight days ago. They were married in 1948.

HOUSE UNIT FINDS 'GANGSTERISM' IN LONG K.C. STRIKE

Urges U.S. to Study Record of Teamster Dispute for Possible Prosecution.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)— House investigators reported today they have turned up evidence of "appalling violence" and "gangster tactics" in a labor dispute in Kansas City. The House members recommended that the Federal Government study the record for possible criminal prosecution.

The report was filed by a House labor subcommittee headed by Representative Wint Smith (Rep.), Kansas. The unit's hearings followed a long union dispute in Kansas City which made as many as 25,000 workers idle for nearly two months.

The subcommittee blamed "jurisdictional demands of the Kansas City Teamsters," an AFL affiliate, for bringing construction, both private and defense, "to a complete halt."

Assails Gangster Tactics.

Reporting on hearings conducted in Kansas City June 29 to July 3, the House group said:

"This committee and the Congress should look with deep concern at this sordid account of free men, afraid to work, terrorized by the gangster tactics of those to whom the Congress itself has given privilege and authority."

Since the hearings ended, work stoppages have ended with the Teamsters going ahead under present work contracts. These do not expire until next April.

Smith told reporters he regarded the existing situation as temporary, calling it "just an aspirin" for the area's labor troubles.

The subcommittee report recommended that its findings be referred to Attorney General Brownell and the United States attorney for the western district of Missouri, with the request they take steps to obtain a federal grand jury investigation.

To Look for Perjury.

It also asked for a study of the record to determine if there was a "possibility of perjury" by witnesses.

It recommended that the full House Labor Committee conduct an inquiry into the operations and effectiveness of the Taft-Hartley labor law in the building trades industry to consider "necessary changes."

The subcommittee asserted that evidence points to the possibility of widespread violation of the law, and "to the need for amendment so that its intent cannot be so readily evaded."

The subcommittee said the dispute involved attempts by the Teamsters union to invade territory where other AFL unions claimed bargaining rights.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

To Those in Need

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I believe that President Eisenhower was right to send $15,000,000 worth of surplus food to Communist East Germany.

But why is it, that with millions and millions of dollars' worth of surplus food on hand in our country, no one ever thinks, no one dares suggest that a portion be given to hungry, half-starved Americans?

Think of what a supply of surplus butter, eggs, ham, beef, lard, sugar and milk every month would mean to our own old and blind, our own needy children and physically handicapped. It would be a Godsend.

During the depression the unemployed were given food stamps to purchase surplus foods. Why can't the same thing be done today for those on public assistance?

Why can't Congress take steps to provide surplus food stamps worth at least $50 per month for every recipient of public assistance and those drawing old-age benefits, with strict provisions that the states cannot deduct the value of these stamps from the amount of aid the recipients are now getting?

I believe that with the support of your publication, enough interest could be aroused to get Congress to act before adjournment.

GEORGE McLAIN.
Los Angeles, Calif.

Reward of Patience

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The signing of the Korean truce is proof that the President has kept the faith with those millions of Americans who believed that he, better than anyone else, could get us out of the undeclared war. He has had to, and will have to continue to be, patient with leaders in his own party, as well as with Syngman Rhee, in order to keep the peace.

Columbia, Mo. L. N. BARNES.

Tough on Salesmen

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Now that parking has been eliminated on Tenth, Eleventh and Chestnut streets, the city can save expenses by closing these streets to traffic. There will be so little traffic on the blocks affected that they may as well grow grass on them.

Meanwhile the parking lots near office buildings are full all day and a salesman with two heavy brief cases will have to take a cab from the nearest lot that has space in order to make calls.

I would suggest that the city follow the Kansas City plan of having parking meters throughout the downtown area including both sides of one-way streets. Somehow it seems much easier to make 15 calls a day in downtown Kansas City with heavy samples than to make three calls downtown in St. Louis. The reason is mainly an accommodating traffic plan. SALESMAN.

Teamsters on the Move?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have noticed that news of the crippling construction strike has slipped to the back pages. However, it has not slipped to the back of the minds of the many people who are injured by this unnecessary tie-up.

If the union leadership were really interested in its men it would have accepted the offer of arbitration suggested by Mayor Tucker.

Now the only conclusion the public can draw is that the teamsters are on the move and would like to control the construction industry.

Power is an ugly thing in the wrong hands. I can only hope that the public will soon begin to realize what it pays for these prolonged strikes. A SUBSCRIBER.

Thoughts in Steam

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

As I lay steaming the other night, my mind kept returning to the question of who is back of stirring this economy-minded hurry-to-adjourn Congress into rushing through as "must" legislation a bill which would deprive the Government of thousands of tax dollars.

I mean the bill killing the federal tax on movie tickets that the cinema magnates have been screaming for.

If the President signs that measure he will, in all fairness, have to remove other taxes on many other items. For instance, after a bath on one of these hot days, did you ever try to get into a two-way stretch without the aid of talcum powder? There's a tax on talcum powder.

This unseemly haste to protect the movie interests is really the straw that broke the camel's back.

To Our Defense

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

M. M. Harris asked you on July 26: "It all depends on whose ox is being gored, doesn't it?"

The reference was to the "Courthouse Ring" editorial criticizing the G.O.P.'s "long-term lease on the Clayton courthouse" and the statement that "ring or clique or machine, it exists."

At this point, your critic must have stopped reading, which I doubt, or closed his mind, which I believe more likely. For the editorial continued in the very next sentence:

"Yet a mere change in party control might not improve matters much. For years county Democratic leaders have abided by the obsolete rural governmental structure, only hoping that on some heavenly day the courthouse lease would fall their way." A. D. S.

A Sad Loss

The circumstances of the death of Senator Taft are saddening almost beyond description. Just a year ago he had battled to the finish in his third bid for a chance at the highest political prize of all—the presidency of the United States. His father, William Howard Taft, had filled the office and Robert A. Taft, the son, wanted it more than anything else in life.

But his ambition was not to be realized. The nomination went to Dwight D. Eisenhower at the end of a bitter contest that all the world had watched. "I'll never run again," said Ohio's Mr. Republican pathetically. "I'll be too old."

Now, in little more than 12 months, he is dead of a fast-enveloping cancer. His invalided wife, who did so much to help him in his early campaigns, was too ill to make a second trip from Washington to New York to be with him when he died. The survivors of few public figures would be the objects of so much sympathy as the bereaved Mrs. Taft, in her wheeled chair, and the four sons. A widespread hope that the Senator would recover now becomes deep regret that he is gone.

Without doubt Senator Taft's two strongest opponents in the world of public affairs were John L. Lewis and Harry S. Truman. Yet the former President could say of him: "He and I did not agree on public policy, but he knew where I stood and I knew where he stood. We need men like Senator Taft in public service."

And the hard-fighting head of the United Mine Workers, who denounced the Taft labor position time and again, said:

> Honest difference of opinion is what makes America a great nation and it is what made Senator Taft a great statesman and a great American. His sincere conservatism was an ingredient of our own way of life.

* * *

The personal tragedy makes this an inappropriate time to attempt a detailed appraisal of Senator Taft and his work in Congress. The Ohio Senator had both his fine qualities and his faults. In the important field of social legislation he could be very progressive, as on housing and public health. He himself drew up a sheaf of amendments to his own Taft-Hartley Labor Act, based on experience with the law's operation. As the law was proposed to redress the balance between capital and labor, so were the amendments intended to improve the administration of the statute in practice.

In the months leading to Pearl Harbor, Taft opposed the Selective Service Act, and the sending of troops to Iceland. After World War II, he opposed the Atlantic Pact, out of which NATO grew. He called the Korean war "Truman's war" and said he had no confidence in the military leadership of Gen. Bradley and the other Joint Chiefs of Staff. Recently he served notice on Mutual Security Administrator Stassen that the foreign aid closeout date could be put down as 1954. His last important speech was interpreted as being willing to "go it alone."

On some issues the Post-Dispatch wholeheartedly supported Senator Taft. For other stands we criticized him. We were greatly disappointed in his willingness to minimize the importance of the rally by the U.N. against aggression in Korea. We were distressed by his defense of Senator McCarthy, which was so foreign to his most commendable advocacy of constitutional rights.

* * *

Similarly it would be a mistake to attempt an analysis now of the Taft role as Senate Majority Leader in the Eighty-Third Congress's first session. Until we know more about his recommendations and guidances at the White House, it would be pointless to make an evaluation. That he was a unifying force and a balance wheel among diverse Senate Republican groups is well known. He helped hold in check the extremists and at times he saved the day for the man who had beaten him for the nomination.

Gov. Lausche of Ohio, a Democrat, in effect pays Robert A. Taft a high tribute by announcing that he will not appoint a successor to the vacancy for whatever may remain of this session. That is one way of saying that Senator Taft occupied a very special place in the lawmaking as well as the politics of the United States.

Again we say that his death is tragically sad and that the members of his family have the nation's sincere sympathy in fullest measure.

What the County Jury Said

The St. Louis county grand jury urged the ouster of the sheriff, elimination of police work by the sheriff's office, establishment of a county police force under a non-political board and a continued investigation of labor and other racketeering, but . . .

This grand jury report was dated Jan. 7, 1939.

Obviously attention has been paid before to the feeble state of law enforcement in St. Louis county. The present situation is not new—only the growth of the county into an urban area is new. Hence the need for a modern police establishment is far greater now than in 1939, when so little of the grand jury's sound advice was taken.

After 14 years of doing nothing, the county now has good reason and sufficient opportunity to provide for an efficient, non-political and metropolitan police system. This time police reforms should not fail.

Tale of Nine Cities

The Missouri Division of Health has just made public a particularly timely and revealing study of dental decay in 3206 children in nine selected cities of the state. It shows forcefully that children who drink water containing fluorides enjoy considerably better dental health than those who do not, and there is a lesson in it for St. Louis.

Three of the cities, Rolla, Sedalia and Chillicothe, suffer from low fluoride content in their municipal drinking water. Three others, Warrensburg, Boonville and Jefferson City, are considered "middle." The last three, Fulton, Mexico and Columbia, are "high" fluoride cities.

And what were the findings? In the low fluoride cities, children had suffered an average of 9.40 decayed, missing or filled teeth by age 14; in the middle group the average was 5.93, while in the high group it was only 1.98.

Moreover, in the high fluoride cities an average of 57 per cent of the children were free of decay, compared to only 18 per cent in the low fluoride cities.

Had St. Louis been included in the study it would have fallen in the "middle" group, for the water supply here contains only about four tenths of one part fluorides to each million parts of water. The so-called "high" content cities enjoy a ratio of about one part per million.

Significantly, this is exactly the ratio recommended by Dr. J. Earl Smith, city health commissioner, so that St. Louis children can enjoy the same benefits as children in Fulton, Mexico and Columbia. All that is necessary is aldermanic approval for the addition of the required amount of fluorides.

Unhappily, however, Dr. Smith has run up against a stone wall of aldermanic indifference coupled with the covert opposition of certain industries that might be inconvenienced by this proved public health measure. The losers have been the children.

Mayor Tucker has appointed a committee of physicians and dentists to look into the subject, and he says he will be guided by its recommendation. That report is due any day now. And surely in the light of the State Health Division's study and the overwhelming mass of other favorable evidence, the committee will urge that the Mayor back Dr. Smith. Parents will hope so.

Does Eisenhower Like REA?

The Eisenhower Administration has reached a point at which it must show, rather conclusively, its intentions toward rural electrification.

A bill granting the Southwestern Power Administration a $1,200,000 continuing fund, but on destructively restricted terms, awaits the President's signature.

The continuing fund consists of money earned by SPA, which it requires for use in buying and transmitting power to serve its customers.

REA co-operatives in Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma are among its customers.

The amount allowed SPA for its continuing fund is only about enough to take care of requirements until February. It is therefore by implication a sort of suspended death sentence for the continuing fund.

The bill returning this inadequate amount to SPA stipulates that the money cannot be used to carry out contracts which SPA and the REA co-ops have entered into in order to generate and transmit new blocks of power in response to increased demand.

Clyde T. Ellis, executive manager of the National Rural Electric Co-operatives Association, which is the national voice of the REA co-ops, says it is "the worst blow" the rural electrification program has ever suffered. He denounces it as "a sell-out."

Senators Kerr and Monroney of Oklahoma say it was intended to bankrupt the REA co-ops and force their sale to private power companies.

Is that what the Administration wants, or is it not? Ambiguous statements about public power have come from President Eisenhower's Secretary of the Interior, Douglas McKay, and from his REA Administrator, Ancher Nelsen. The actions of both have been predominantly, if not indeed consistently, hostile to public power.

Does the President go along with those who reject all public power as "creeping socialism"? Is rural electrification to be made a sacrifice to creeping exploitation, in the interest of a few power companies, and against the interests of more than 3,000,000 farm families to which it has finally brought the advantages of the industrial revolution?

The President's handling of the SPA bill will show Administration intentions more clearly than any words spoken to date.

Nothing is to be gained by a veto, for then SPA would lack a continuing fund altogether. With Congress so near a recess, it is unlikely another and better bill could be passed before next session.

But the President, in signing the bill, can and should speak out against the inadequacy of the continuing fund and the restriction placed upon its use. He can and should call on Congress to make an adequate continuing fund for SPA, to be used as needed, one of its first orders of business on reconvening next year.

Germany's Clouded Gesture

The amount involved may not be nearly adequate to the crime—money never can wipe out guilt—but there is hope for the whole race of man in the Bonn parliament's voting of 4,000,000 marks for Germans, mostly Jews, persecuted by the Nazis. A payment of 150 marks ($37.50) for every month served in a concentration camp is especially inadequate for those who did not live to collect this recompense.

This is a time, however, for looking less to the money than to the motive behind it. Coupled with the previous payment of a roughly equal sum to Israel on behalf of Jews no longer in Germany, this appropriation does represent the repudiation by the present German government of the atrocities of the Hitler regime. In a nation recovering from the losses of war, it goes beyond mere pious words of contrition and sympathy.

One can only wish that it were representative of each and every German, including those neo-Nazis who are worming their way into the country's official and commercial life. The knowledge that there are individuals—and ambitious individuals—in Germany who will say that "Hitler was not so bad" is the cloud over Bonn's fine gesture.

Free Market in Rent

The abrupt ending of federal rent ceilings in St. Louis and some 1100 other cities in the nation is almost certain to result in a reduced standard of living for a great many low and middle-income families.

How serious this condition may become remains to be seen. But it is evident that the squeeze will be felt most sharply in communities like St. Louis where the shortage of rental units will tempt many a landlord to load on all the traffic will bear. In the long run, of course, lush rents ought to stimulate more building. Even so, the long-term prospect is likely to be small comfort to those now caught in the rent vise.

Lifting of the ceilings grew out of the insistence by the Republican-controlled Congress that "socialistic" controls had to go. This passed the buck to the states and their rural-dominated legislatures. The Missouri Legislature had little heart for permitting St. Louis to set up its own controls system, principally because of the pathetic performance of the city's delegation. Gov. Donnelly ignored all pleas for a special session to enact a permissive law.

Mayor Tucker's Fair Rent Committee has no legal authority to restrain rent gouging; all it has is what force of moral persuasion it can muster. The fact that it is dominated by real estate men who are veterans at fighting controls has not helped inspire deep confidence on the part of tenants. Nor will the fact that its chairman's realty firm has raised rents about 10 per cent in a 354-unit St. Louis county project. That might be worth an inquiry by the Fair Rent Committee that Supervisor Matthews so belatedly decided to appoint in the county.

Whether these unofficial bodies can hold rents within reasonable limits is a question. But one thing is sure: If they fail, the people are going to put up a clamor for the inclusion of roll-back legislation in any call for a special session of the Missouri Legislature.

Oracles Are Often Obscure

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Interpreting what the White House wants is as difficult as ancient Greek ritual, Congressman finds; three levels of the Administration gave three views on Niagara power bill, and result was that private companies got nod over New York State.

A Letter to His Constituents by Representative Sidney R. Yates (Dem.) of Chicago

In ancient Greece when political leaders felt the need for advice, they consulted their oracles. Sometimes the oracles replied directly and plainly. More often their utterances were couched in ambiguous terms which required interpretation by wise men. The difficulty was that the wise men's interpretations were frequently as obscure as the oracle's.

Take the case of King Pyrrhus, for example, who turned to the oracle at Delphos to find out if he should make war against Rome. The oracle exclaimed: "I say, Pyrrhus, that you the Romans can conquer."

Pyrrhus left the temple with the assurance of his advisers that the oracle had foretold his victory, and he went to war. The Romans defeated him. The advisers were wrong—not the oracle. Read the statement again.

One finds an interesting parallel to the oracular ritual today in congressional procedure. Congressional committees frequently seek the recommendation of the White House on controversial legislation. The White House usually makes known its views through the Bureau of the Budget, and then the wise men in the Congress place their own interpretation on the bureau's words.

On those occasions when the Bureau of the Budget's position is obscure, congressional leaders frequently do not help clarify the situation. Such an instance occurred in the debate on the Niagara power bill.

The Public Works Committee, deeply split, had approved a plan for development of the hydroelectric power potential at Niagara Falls by five private electric companies, and had rejected the plan of the State of New York to develop the project through a State Authority.

The Federal Government would have no participation under either proposal. It was solely a question of whether the private companies should be preferred in the face of an express request from Gov. Dewey to permit his state to exploit a natural resource which belongs to all the people.

It was an important question and the committee had requested the views of the executive branch. Two letters had been received from the Bureau of the Budget and Congressman Dondero of Michigan, chairman of the Public Works Committee, attempted to interpret them. The first letter dated May 14 stated the matter should be left to the judgment of the Congress. This letter was signed by the director.

On June 24, six weeks later, the committee received a second letter from the Bureau of the Budget which suggested that the matter be referred to the Federal Power Commission. This letter was signed by the assistant director.

From these letters, Dondero deduced that the White House favored leaving the matter in the hands of Congress. He was immediately assailed by opponents of the bill: Why was the gentleman disregarding the later letter signed by the assistant director? And did the gentleman believe the assistant director would dare send a letter to the Congress embodying a change of policy without the approval of the director?

Dondero, unimpressed by the storm, lightly brushed the question aside. "If the bureau wanted to change its position and have the Congress refer the matter to the Federal Power Commission," he said, "its letter would be signed by the director—not the assistant director." (Editor's note: The House thereupon quickly and overwhelmingly passed the bill favoring the private power companies.)

The President himself was asked for his views on the Niagara power bill at a press conference the day before the debate in the House. He said this was a very special case; that he could take no action or even express a specific opinion until the bill was drawn, and if passed, was presented to him; and then, of course, with all his advisers, there would be an analysis of it and action taken.

Apparently, he had overlooked the fact that the Bureau of the Budget, presumably speaking for him, had already suggested a course of action to the Congress. If the President proposed to reserve his opinion until after the Congress had acted, one wonders why the Bureau of the Budget, speaking through the director or even the assistant director, should bother to make any comment at all on the bill.

Perhaps this was the answer to the question I asked a few months ago: "Who speaks for the President?" Perhaps no one in the Administration speaks for the President except the President—definitely, that is.

But Who Will Read It?

From The Pleasant Hill (Mo.) Times

That new pocket-size monthly magazine, the Democratic Digest, has come into being for a quite understandable reason. The Democratic party wants to see its side of the political argument in print some place.

With an initial order of 100,000 copies, the Digest is a small voice in a big hall. It's a little bit like the Democratic national committee had bought a 500-watt radio station in Kansas to buck all the radio and TV networks in the country.

The Republicans have virtually all the newspapers and magazines. The exceptions on the newspaper side do, indeed, include some of the trade's very finest, but the exceptions in magazineland are on the small and weak side. A mass-circulation magazine is bound to be either too rich to be Democratic or too shaky to risk displeasing the advertising agency of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn.

Anyway, the great bulk of the public is going to get its political propaganda fed to it alongside or injected into the news, fiction and entertainment it pays for at the newsstand. The Democratic Digest, with no romantic fiction, no comics, no space-ship-to-moon articles, will sink or swim on the two-bit pieces of the faithful party followers. Many Democrats, unable to find their political prejudices soothed in print elsewhere, will think the quarter well spent, and to this extent the magazine will fill an honest need. But who else will buy?

As a counter-balance to the Republican propaganda in the one-party press, the Democratic Digest is bound to be woefully short on the circulation side. The Democrats do have a great strength in the Fourth Estate, however. This is the working press—the leg men, the staffers, even the Washington correspondents—a majority of whom take a far different view of the political scene than do their employers.

Broadly speaking, the Republicans have the publishers and the Democrats have the newspapermen. It's not as unequal a division as it may appear.

Between Book Ends

A Day of Self-Discovery

THE PECKING ORDER, by Mark Kennedy. (Appleton-Century-Crofts, 278 pgs., $3.50.)

Joanna Spencer in The New York Herald Tribune

The pecking order by which hens in a barnyard establish relative "ascendance and submission" furnishes an analogy for the behavior of a gang of boys in Mark Kennedy's first novel—a book that not only shows promise, but is in itself an exciting achievement.

Almost like a play in form, this book starts off simply with an 11-year-old Negro boy waking up on a summer morning in his home in Chicago. Bruce Freeman feels before he is fully awake that something will be different about this day, that in some way he will discover something about his own identity.

Outwardly the day starts disappointingly. First he has a run-in with his senile grandmother, and next he is saddled with the care of a younger boy, Johnny, the son of a neighbor. Johnny's mother considers Bruce reliable, and Johnny himself, babyish and pretty for his 8 years, worships Bruce.

Mark Kenne

Bruce's friend Snag, a fat boy with a constantly dripping nose, is the next to join Bruce on this free summer day. They have a fight, which is broken up by B. J. and his friend Henry. These two are different kinds of boys—B. J. daring and wild, a reform school graduate, a boy with a sense of adventure which is frightening and irresistible to the unproven, uncertain younger boys; Henry, a bitter Southern boy, the only one of the five who thinks in terms of a color line, the only one who has no code of honor except that carved for him by his whining hatred.

The five, with B. J. No. 1 in the pecking order, set out on a day of adventure. Throughout B. J. is testing his powers to see how far he can draw them, while each of the other boys, within himself, is trying to find a balance between mob courage and his personal standards.

It is obvious from the beginning that B. J.'s compulsive daring can end only in horror.

The excitement and variety of this book is enormous. It is often tough and ugly, but it has moods and passages of sunniness, sweetness and innocence. It is sad and also hopeful. It handles carefully and tenderly the complex feelings of children trying to adapt to the pressures that pull them in opposite directions.

It is not essentially about Negro children. Though all the boys are colored, this constitutes only one more pressure, not a whole range of differences.

In telling his story, Mr. Kennedy sometimes overwrites. He strains for similes, and he frequently allows Bruce to analyze and perceive motivations far beyond the powers of even the very intelligent child that he is. These are small flaws though, and they do not seriously impair this delicate, quite remarkable book.

SAFER SMOKING, By Dr. Clarence W. Lieb. (Exposition Press, New York, 104 pgs., $2.50.)

Dr. Lieb, who for 10 years was research adviser to one of the large tobacco companies, says at the outset that he is not trying to advocate "total abstinence."

He presents scientific evidence on the dangers of tobacco-smoking and makes suggestions for reducing the damage—for instance, stop inhaling. And if you really want to quit smoking, here is a book that likely enough could talk you into it. DALE ETTER.

Taft at Chicago Won Personal Following, Lost Presidency

Unflagging Energy, Incisive Thinking Shown at Convention, No Word or Action Betrayed Disappointment.

Ken Davis of the Columbus, O. staff of the Associated Press was assigned to cover Senator Robert A. Taft during his bid for the Republican presidential nomination in Chicago last summer. In the following story he gives some intimate glimpses of Taft the man.

By KEN DAVIS.

COLUMBUS, O., July 31 — The big detective had a puzzled expression.

"You know," he said, "I've got so I like the guy.

"You come along five days ago and ask 'You like Senator Robert A. Taft?' and I probably would have said 'no' and I might even have thrown in a cuss-word.

"But, not now. I don't know why I changed my mind particularly. I've been with him five days now. He's a good guy."

That was the story of Bob Taft of Ohio at the Republican National Convention in Chicago during a hot July 1952. He won a personal following and lost a presidency.

Under the terrific strain of the convention, the sinews of character showed more clearly than during normal times. It was months of living compressed into days.

Twenty hours of work a day. Wild rides amid the screaming sirens of police cars. An automatic smile, the lifted hand, the enthusiasm for each conversation—professional political work. Unbelievable and unflagging energy. Incisive, compartmentalized thinking.

Chat With Small Boy.

A little boy from Oregon invaded the fourth-floor lobby outside Taft's door one evening. A Chicago detective introduced the boy to Taft when he came out after his dinner.

Quietly Taft chatted with the lad, joking and joshing as any father might. The elevator same to a stop at the first floor. The crowd in the lobby shouted greetings.

Taft turned to the boy and said, "Goodby son," and faced the crowd. In that instant he stopped being a father and became the candidate for the presidential nomination. The change was abrupt and determined, shoulders suddenly squared against the onslaught.

One night in his private suite, Senator Taft posed for pictures in front of a television set as he listened to a convention speaker. Here was the man some thought was stodgy, snobbish and humorless. But with the small corps of newspaper men who were with him, day in and day out, he relaxed, joked. Some of his jokes were so out of line politically they were unusable.

But, again, when the picture-taking was over, the man of humor shifted rapidly into the driven man who sought the grail of American politics.

Compartments in His Mind

It was as if he had compartments within his mind, each for a different phase of his life, into which he moved effortlessly as the scenes outside his person changed.

At times, Senator Taft took delight in confounding reporters. He detested being followed. He tolerated it but never believed it right. Four times during the convention he tried to slip from his office without his retinue of newspaper reporters. Twice he succeeded.

On a second attempt to visit former President Hoover undetected, Senator Taft was met by two of us on the floor above, heading rapidly toward an elevator.

Senator Taft frowned, shrugged and said to companions: "I told you." But, he didn't let disappointment slow his steps a bit. He took this minor failure in stride, just as he took major failure, the failure to get the nomination.

No man ever tried harder to win the nation's top office. No man ever wanted to win it more. Perhaps no man had greater incentive, for the Senator wanted to follow in his father's footsteps. He wanted to be President like his father, William Howard Taft.

Disappointment Concealed.

Because of that intense desire and because no man ever went into a national convention in a better position to win the nomination, disappointment must have been terribly keen when Gen. Dwight Eisenhower won the G.O.P. nomination.

But you couldn't tell it from Bob Taft—not by word, by action, by tone or attitude.

When all around political disaster struck, when the shouting still heralded defeat, when crying women staff members and every campaign picture and gadget mocked, Senator Taft remained exactly as he had been when victory seemed probable. He showed the kind of courage you wish you had but seldom do.

And later that night, when Taft headquarters was a desert in the midst of a city, Bob Taft walked out of his office and headed for the elevators. He was going down the street to the hotel suite where sat the most faithful of his personal following, his wife Martha, who campaigned from a wheel chair far beyond a woman's normal strength that her husband might get his fondest wish, the presidency of the United States.

That retreat to the family shelter with defeat dogging his steps was Bob Taft's bravest moment.

LAW CHANGE URGED ON TAFT'S SUCCESSOR

Ohio Republicans Hope to Pass Bill for Election This Year.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1 (UP) —Republican state legislators said today they hope to change Ohio law to permit election of Senator Robert A. Taft's successor this year and prevent an appointee of the Democratic Governor from actively serving in the Senate.

The proposed change would provide for election of a new Senator in November. Thus, any Senator appointed by Gov. Frank Lausche would serve only until the election and would never take part in a working session of the Senate. Congress is expected to adjourn in a few days until January.

Senator John W. Bricker, a former Governor, urged the Legislature within an hour after Taft died yesterday to change the law. The Legislature was scheduled to adjourn later in the day.

Instead, a memorial session was held for Taft and the Legislature decided to meet again next Friday. At that time the Republicans, who control the Legislature, hope to put through a bill calling senatorial primaries in 60 days and a senatorial election in November.

Lausche, meanwhile, canceled his plans to leave today for the Governor's conference in Seattle so he could attend Taft's funeral.

There was some thought that Lausche might favor the change in the election law. He is said to feel the people, and not an official, should choose the new Senator.

He continued silent about his appointment of a successor to Taft. There was some speculation that Lausche himself might be interested in running for the office if an election is held immediately.

New Senate Leader Likely to Be Named In January.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP) —Senate Republicans indicated today they will wait until January to elect a leader who must try to fill the shoes of Robert A. Taft.

With Congress on the verge of adjournment, there was no indication of pressure for immediate changes, although one influential Republican admitted that such pressure may develop if the Senate is unable to quit within a few days.

MAILMAN FETED AT END OF ROUTE AFTER 48 YEARS

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Delivering his last pouch of mail before retirement after 48 years of service, Reinhold V. Pillisch was told yesterday to save till last a package for room 1410 in the Boatmen's Bank Building. There he found a large party of old "customers" waiting to honor him.

He handed the package to William E. Rench, general agent of an insurance firm, then told the group how he had made his first delivery in the building when it opened in 1914 to Rench's father, the late Fred T. Rench. In those days, he recalled, there were no elevators.

On hand were old friends, including former United States Senator Forrest C. Donnell, who had received their mail from "Reiny" Pillisch's pouch for years. Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann read a "citation," written by downtown office workers on Pillisch's route. A restaurant sent a cake and a florist sent flowers.

"I think I'll get off my feet and take it easy," Pillisch said.

LEADER IN SLUM FIGHT SAYS TAFT'S DEATH IS A BLOW

The death of Senator Taft is a severe blow to the movement for slum clearance and the development of low-cost housing, Msgr. John O'Grady of Washington, D. C., one of the founders of the National Housing Policy Conference, said today.

Msgr. O'Grady, who is in St. Louis in connection with his work as secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, said that the late Senator's report for the housing subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Postwar Planning in 1944 laid the foundation for the Housing Act of 1949, under which the present housing and slum clearance programs were developed.

"Senator Taft has been one of the most valiant defenders of the housing program in the intervening years," Msgr. O'Grady stated. "Without his leadership the future of public housing, slum clearance and city planning as a whole looks very dismal."

LUTHERAN COUNCIL ELECTS LAYMAN NEW EXECUTIVE

Lawrence W. Meinzen, retired Army officer of Oakland, Calif., arrived here this week to take up his duties as the new executive secretary of the Council of Lutheran Churches of greater St. Louis. He is 59 years old, and served for 29 years in the United States Army. He retired as a lieutenant colonel.

The council is the co-ordinating agency of Lutheran churches in welfare work, co-operative educational work, charity and public relations. Offices are at 2400 South Jefferson avenue.

Of three sons of Meinzen, one was killed in the Air Force, and two others are in military service, one of them now in Korea.

Before entering the Army, Meinzen took two years' theological training at Concordia Seminary, Clayton. Since his retirement he has been executive secretary of the Canadian Lutheran World Relief organization.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS OPEN ANNUAL CAMP MEETING

Seventh-day Adventists of Missouri opened their annual conference and camp meeting last night at Sunnydale Academy, Centralia, Mo. Many members of St. Louis Adventist churches are in attendance.

Church leaders from the denomination's headquarters at Washington, D.C., will speak during the nine-day meeting.

Pastors of two St. Louis churches have been at the academy for the last week, preparing for the camp meeting. They are Elder V. L. Heglund of the Southside Church, and Elder Glenmore Carter of Central Church.

Pastor Attends Conference.

The Rev. Oliver R. Shields, pastor of Lafayette Park Baptist Church, Lafayette and Mississippi avenues, has spent this week at the summer Bible conference held at the Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. Previously he had spent three weeks on vacation in Texas. He will return to his pulpit tomorrow.

Church Pamphlet Will Answer Communists' Race Propaganda

Negro Pastor Editor; State Department Will Reprint 100,000 Copies for Distribution Overseas.

Ministers and laymen of the Evangelical and Reformed churches have contributed more than $3000 toward the publication of a pamphlet that will set forth "significant and important improvements in American race relations." Many St. Louis church people have made donations.

The editing and over-all writing will be done by a noted Negro church leader, the Rev. Dr. James E. Robinson, minister of the Church of the Master in New York City.

Since the pamphlet is sponsored by a voluntary organization, the State Department will reprint 100,000 copies for overseas distribution.

The Rev. Dr. Robinson described his proposed publication at the recent National Conference on Christian Education at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. The 4000 delegates promptly contributed $3000, which is to be used for the preparation of the pamphlet.

The Rev. Dr. Robinson has prepared a statement of his aims, and a copy of it was furnished to the Post-Dispatch Church page by the Rev. Dr. Theodore C. Braun, editor of The Messenger, national organ of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, 1720 Chouteau avenue.

"Every traveler in the Middle East and Asia," the Rev. Robinson stated, "returns to this country with the same story, namely: that the problem of American race relations undercuts American influence as much, if not more, than any other single factor.

"There is need for a pamphlet from 20 to 25 pages telling the story in many areas of American life where there have been significant and important improvements in race relations. The Communists see that the other side is given wider publicity.

"The State Department feels, and I agree, that the pamphlet will be most effective if it is done by American Negroes.

"I propose to obtain the assistance of the following experts: the Labor and Social Service Secretary of the National Council of the Episcopal Church; Department of Education of Howard University; Department of Sociology of Lincoln University; the secretary for Negro work of the Presbyterian Church; the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; also Jackie Robinson in sports, and Lena Horne, entertainment.

"They are all agreeable to helping me with this project."

The material will be used in the training and orientation program of State Department personnel, and will also be distributed to nationals abroad, the Rev. Dr. Robinson said.

PRAYER FOR PEACE WILL BE SPOKEN AT EVERY MASS

Special prayers for peace and for success of the negotiations in Korea will be said in all Catholic churches, according to a directive issued this week by Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter.

His letter to the archdiocese, in part, follows:

"The negotiators will be human beings devoted to the interests of their own countries and ideologies. More than at any other time in history they and their leaders must have divine guidance to temper their national ambitions, to inspire them with a wisdom that embraces the whole world and to moderate excessive self-interest.

"Because of the urgent need for divine aid public prayers are to be said by priest and people in all the churches of the archdiocese after every mass, following the prescribed prayers for the conversion of Russia. . . .

"The text for this prayer for peace and guidance is:

"O God, from Whom all holy desires, all right counsel and all just works do proceed; give to Thy servants that peace which the world cannot give; that our hearts may be disposed to obey Thy commandments, and the fear of enemies being removed, our times, by Thy protection, may be peaceful. Through Jesus Christ our Lord."

LUTHERAN PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL TO FT. SMITH, ARK.

The Rev. Edward A. Krause has resigned as pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, 2153 Salisbury street, to accept a call to First Lutheran Church, Fort Smith, Ark. He will preach his farewell sermon here on Aug. 23.

His father, the Rev. Edward C. Krause, associate pastor of Bethlehem Church, will remain here.

Youth Work Director Named.

Mr. Spragens was educated at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, and the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. He was an instructor for two years at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo.

GIVING TO CHURCHES ABOUT A HALF-CENT OUT OF EVERY DOLLAR

Americans contributed to churches in 1952 only a little more than a half cent out of every dollar of personal income, according to the United States Department of Commerce. This is revealed in the department's July survey of current business, "National Income Number."

The figures are: Total personal income last year, $269,660,000,000; taxes, $34,645,000,000; net income, $235,015,000,000.

Gifts to religious bodies, $1,296,000,000.

Americans spent much more on foreign travel, or $1,666,000,000.

Following are further figures on comparative personal expenditures:

Tobacco and smoking supplies, $5,135,000,000—or four times as much as the churches got; toilet articles, $1,352,000,000; recreation, $11,716,000,000 (this includes $1,134,000,000 spent on movies); purchase of new and used cars, $8,342,000,000; higher education, $930,000,000; golf, $169,000,000.

Americans saved $16,885,000,000 last year, and spent $218,130,000,000.

Erskine the Master in Clutch as Dodgers Break 1953 Losing Jinx Here

Carl Fans 11; Presko Vs. Roe in 2nd Game

By Bob Broeg

If Brooklyn wins the National League pennant on the strength of a strong surge in July, Carl Daniel Erskine, a handsome Hoosier can take a sweeping bow. In the month just ended the Dodgers' little 26-year-old righthander was the best pitcher in the trade.

On June 1 and again when the calendar crept into July, Brooklyn led by only one-half game, each time with Milwaukee breathing on the leaders' necks, and in both instances the Cardinals trailing by two and one-half lengths.

Now another month has passed, and the Dodgers have a commanding advantage of eight games over the Braves and 11 over the Redbirds.

July was the Cards' hottest month a year ago when they won 19 games and lost only eight, but this time they turned in only a subpar 13-15 record. And with other National League contenders performing little better, Brooklyn's brilliant 23-8 pace opened a lead that could prove unconquerable—especially if Erskine continues to pitch as he did in July.

Six Straight in July.

In the month that bowed out last night, the clever collar-ad from Anderson, Ind., won six games and lost none, permitting only nine earned runs and 40 hits in 61 innings, walking just 17 and striking out 54. Merely because he hadn't been particularly effective earlier this season, his won-and-lost mark now is 11 and 4, the same as his lifetime advantage over the Cardinals.

A six-hit pitcher who was in serious trouble time and again, especially because he issued four walks in two inning-opening pairs, Erskine held off the Redbirds with perfect pitching in the pinch to break their four-game winning streak at Busch Stadium, 2 to 1.

Joe (5-9) Presko and Preacher (6-2) Roe probably will be the opposing pitchers tonight in the second game at 8 o'clock.

A tense crowd of 24,918 saw the stout-hearted and strong-armed Erskine strike out 10 or more men for the third straight game, fanning 11 Cardinals with a cunning combination of fast ball, overhanded curve and change-up that invariably came when they were looking for the high hard one.

"I threw a slider or two, but they were just waste pitches," Erskine said afterward. "Funny thing, I don't feel any better than when I wasn't getting anyone out before Charley (Dressen) skipped me a couple of turns about a month and a half ago."

Brooklyn Gets Breaks.

Eddie Stanky, though unhappy over a couple of umpiring calls that went the other way, could see clearly enough to praise the pitcher who gave the Dodgers their first 1953 victory here in six tries.

"How would I rate him?" Stanky said, repeating a question. "If I had one game to win and had my choice of a few pitchers for a staff, he'd be among them. Carl is a good boy."

Off Gerry Staley and Hal White, the Dodgers collected nine hits, but neither St. Louis pitcher walked a batter, and Brooklyn needed the bat of Junior Gilliam, the legs of Billy Cox, an error and a bit of good fortune to score twice.

After Gilliam opened the game with a double, Ray Jablonski kicked Gil Hodges's easy two-out grounder to give away the first-inning run. And in the second, trying to draw back from a pitch, Cox popped a single to left, stole second and tallied with two down on Gilliam's second of three safeties.

Erskine opened shakily, walking both Solly Hemus and returned Red Schoendienst. Two infield grounders later, Hemus tried to score on Enos Slaughter's high hopper to Hodges and was declared out by Plate Umpire Al Barlick, insisting hotly he wasn't tagged on a close play.

Cards Score in Seventh.

Before the Cardinals scored their only run in the seventh on Steve Bilko's tremendous double off the center-field wall, pinch-hitter Dick Sisler's scratch hit and Schoendienst's two-out single, Erskine staved them off three times.

After Stan Musial opened the fourth with a single, Carl fired three strikes past Slaughter, Jablonski and Rip Repulski in succession, giving him four strikeouts in a row. In the fifth following the catcher's interference and Hemus's single that put two men on with two away, Erskine stopped Schoendienst. And in the sixth, well, there came the decisive moment.

Musial and Slaughter drew inning-opening walks. Although Jablonski was trying to bunt, the Brooklyn pitcher still was off in his control. The count ran to "3-1" and Jabbo, hitting away now, swung at a bad pitch and then—with the runners in motion—took one he and the bench thought was low.

Barlick, wearing the umpire's blue and drawing the pay for calling 'em, saw it as a third strike. Musial was trapped before he could reach third and in a rundown that followed, Slaughter was retired.

So instead of having the bases loaded with none out, the Cardinals had only one on with two down, and Erskine, the man of the month in July, then whipped a third strike past Repulski.

Staley, 13-5, won only two games in July. . . . Repulski's running catch prevented a Brooklyn run in the ninth. . . . Willard Schmidt, acquired from Columbus, reported and was in uniform, but Outfielder Harry Elliott, called up from Houston, wasn't expected until today. . . . The Brooks now have won five straight from the Cards to take a 9-6 edge on the season's play.

He's Out---the Umpire Said . . . He's Not, the Redbirds Said

SOLLY HEMUS, sliding home, apparently was wide of the plate and from the looks of things, Catcher ROY CAMPANELLA must have put the tag on him as he tried to score in the first inning on Enos Slaughter's ground ball to Gil Hodges. Anyhow, that's the way Umpire AL BARLICK saw it.

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—Two pitchers who have found victories rather difficult to get this season were opponents as the Browns played the New York Yankees in the second game of their present series today.

Harry Brecheen, who has won three and lost nine, was the Brownie starter as the St. Louis club sought to gain its third victory in 16 games so far this season with the Yankees.

Bob Kuzava, with a 2-2 mark, started for New York.

At third base for the Browns was Junior Stephens, who played only six innings yesterday as he made his first appearance with St. Louis following the deal that sent him back to the Browns from the Chicago White Sox. Stephens suffered a leg-muscle strain in the first game.

Gil McDougald got the Yankees off on the right foot in the first inning when he led off with a home run, his sixth of the season.

The play-by-play:

FRST INNING—BROWNS—Groth flied to Woodling. Hunter struck out. Sievers walked. Wertz was called out on strikes.

YANKEES — McDougald homered into the lower left field stands. It was his sixth of the year. Collins struck out. Stephens threw out Mantle. Berra singled to center. Bauer flied to Groth. ONE RUN.

SECOND — BROWNS — Lenhardt singled to left. Moss flied to Woodling. Stephens struck out. Young forced Lenhardt, Martin to Rizzuto.

YANKEES—Brecheen threw out Woodling. Martin went out the same way. Young threw out Rizzuto.

THIRD—BROWNS — Brecheen popped to Collins. Groth flied to Woodling. McDougald threw out Hunter.

Browns and Stephens Are Inauspicious.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—With a five-run second inning following a three-run first, the New York Yankees wrapped up their series opener wit hthe Browns early here yesterday, winning 11-5.

Marlin Stuart was the second inning victim as the champions routed him with a avalanche of hits. splattered around some woeful fielding. The Browns' defense gestures were so inept that only four of the Yanks' 11 runs were earned.

Vern (Junior) Stephens made his first appearance in a St. Louis uniform since the Browns sold him to the Red Sox, Nov. 17, 1947. He played only six innings, however, as a leg muscle strain sent him to sidelines.

Junior's "homecoming" game was not exactly auspicious. He grounded out and fanned in two chances at bat, was slow handling Joe Collins's roller in the second and made a wild throw of what should have been a double play on Billy Martin's grounder in the fourth.

This mishap was attributed to sun glasses. The bases were full when Martin hit a grounder right to Stephens. It should have been a simple matter for Junior to step on third, then throw home for a double play on Yogi Berra.

Just at that moment the glasses jolted loose and Stephens couldn't find third base to step on. His throw home pulled Clint Courtney far off the plate.

The attendance of 6981 was the second smallest of the year at Yankee Stadium.

Yanks Shift Players.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 1 (AP) Emil Patrick, righthanded pitcher and Bill Virdon, speedy centerfielder, have been shifted from the Kansas City Blues to Birmingham of the Southern Association by the New York Yankees.

Porterfield Hurls Three-Hitter To End Trucks's 8-Game Streak

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—If Paul Richards still hopes to have pennant aspirations when he hits New York next weekend he better set up a base hit ration system for his "feast or famine" Chicago White Sox.

On Thursday the second place Sox broke out with their biggest barrage of the year—21 safeties that produced 17 runs at Boston. But last night at Washington the Sox managed only three hits off Bob Porterfield and got beat 2-0.

The loss cost them a full game in the flag chase since the New York Yankees smothered St. Louis, 11-5. Chicago now trails by 5½ games.

A shutout was in the books in Washington since the league's two most prolific shutout pitchers were facing each other. Virgil (Fire) Trucks, winner of eight straight since joining Chicago in mid-June, had pitched five scoreless games. So had Porterfield.

Senators Start Early.

The Senators made certain in the first inning that they weren't the ones who were going to get whitewashed. Jackie Jensen drove in one run with a double and scored the second on Jim Busby's single. Porterfield never gave the White Sox a chance. Only two men got as far as second and at one point he retired 15 in order.

Cleveland, smarting from the sting of two defeats in New York, took it out on the Philadelphia Athletics to the tune of 12-6. Wally Westlake hammered five straight hits including a home run. The victory went to Dave Hoskins after Art Houtteman again failed to last.

Ralph Branca, the pitcher no club in the National League could use, won his second game for the Detroit Tigers, beating Boston 5-3. The loss dropped the fourth-place Red Sox 10½ games behind New York.

No. 18 for Roberts.

The Milwaukee Braves bowed 5-1 to Robin Roberts in the first game of a twilight-night doubleheader. The second game, a scoreless pitching duel between Bob Miller and Max Surkont, was halted in the top of the eleventh inning because of rain.

The storm had threatened all day but 29,802 Braves fans showed up, running Milwaukee's attendance for the year to 1,009,119, second only to the New York Yankees who have played six more home dates.

Roberts gave up just four hits in winning his eighteenth game, four more than any other pitcher in the majors.

Larry Jansen, who earns a good share of his New York Giant paycheck by beating the Cincinnati Redlegs, did it again, this time 9-2. The victory was Jansen's tenth of the year and fifth over Cincinnati. His lifetime mark against the Reds is 24-3.

After losing 22 of their last 26 games the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Chicago Cubs 4-0 on Murry Dickson's eight-hit pitching. The Pirates have won 32 games this year, nine of them over the Cubs.

Yanks Recall Hurler Miller, Three Others

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—The deadline for the majors' new minor league option recall rule passed at midnight last night with six clubs dipping into their farm systems during the final hours for additional strength.

The rule forbids a major league club to recall from the minors after midnight July 31 any player out on option. It does not, however, prevent a major league club from purchasing a minor league player at any time.

The New York Yankees, leading the American League by 5½ games, got under the wire by a few hours with the biggest deal. They called up four players, including one of the top pitchers in the Class A Eastern League.

Recalled were Bill Miller, lefthanded pitcher from Kansas City in the American Association and Shortstop Jim Brideweser from Syracuse of the International League. The world champions also purchased Gus Triandos, 225-pound catcher-first baseman, from their Birmingham farm in the Southern Association and southpaw pitcher Steve Kraly from Binghamton in the eastern circuit. Kraly has compiled an 18-2 record with seven shutouts in 18 games.

To make room for Miller and Brideweser, the New York Club asked for waivers on catcher Ralph Houk and veteran pitcher Ray Scarborough. Since both Triandos and Kraly are returned servicemen they can be carried as extra men over the 25-player limit.

Twenty-four hours earlier the St. Louis Cardinals brought up outfielder Harry Elliott from their Houston farm in the Texas League and recalled Pitcher Willard Schmidt from Columbus in the American Association.

The Chicago White Sox sought to strengthen their pennant hopes by recalling Clifford (Connie) Johnson, a pitcher with a 6-5 record for Charleston in the American Association, and outfielder-first baseman Bob Boyd from Toronto.

During the past couple of weeks, the Brooklyn Dodgers brought back outfielder Dick Williams from Montreal, catcher Dick Teed from Mobile and pitcher Glenn Mickens from Fort Worth.

The Boston Red Sox lost no time putting their latest acquisition, pitcher Frank Sullivan, into action. Just up from Albany he hurled two innings last night against the Tigers and gave up two hits.

Pompeyo Davalillo, farmed out after one day of spring training, was recalled from Charlotte by the Washington Senators. He's due to take over the shortstop spot.

Thompson Seeks His Fourth Title in District Tennis

By Harold Flachsbart

Hot weather doesn't seem to bother tennis, golf and baseball players as much as some fans on the sidelines, so today's opening matches in the District tennis tournament could produce some hot volleys—even in 100-degree weather.

Frank Thompson, the veteran stylist who captured the District singles title in 1940, '47 and 1950, is back for another fling in the tourney which starts at the Triple A courts in Forest Park early this afternoon. Thompson is seeded No. 1, which means the tournament committee feels he is most likely fo go all the way.

Thompson's second-round opponent will be Irving Schaberg today because both drew first-round byes. Second-seeded Ben Bishop, former John Burroughs and Colgate luminary, is seeded second in the nine-day tournament in which Ralph Hart, the 1952 title winner, is not defending. Hart is vacationing in North Carolina.

Bishop goes into action at 5 o'clock against Ed Deffaa, a parks player for many years who built a reputation as a retriever. Ward Parker, 40-year-old third-seeded player who has been mopping up Municipal titles for many years, will not play on opening day but may return from a vacation in time for Sunday's play.

His wife, Mrs. Merceina Parker, is the No. 1 player in the women's division, with Mrs. Jean Langenberg seeded second. Mrs. Langenberg today will face Dottie Reinhart.

Earl Buchholz, the boy wizard of St. Louis courts, will not be an entrant, as previously announced. He will seek further national recognition in a River Forest (Ill.) tourney for boys 13 and under.

All told, 23 matches are on today's program.

Dell Reaches National Boys' Tennis Final

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 1 (UP)—Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., moved into finals of the National Junior and Boys' tennis championships today by beating Alan Silverman of Brooklyn, N. Y., 6-1, 6-0.

Dell, who was top-seeded in the boys' division, now has marched through five opponents and only once was forced to go into a third set. He disposed of seventh-seeded Silverman in just 31 minutes.

Today's play was delayed by heavy rain last night which made courts soggy.

In the feature match of the day, Jerry Moss of Jacksonville, Fla., faced John Lesch, of Los Angeles in the junior semi-finals.

In yesterday's play, Dell moved through the boys' quarterfinals by defeating Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, and Silverman won over Spencer Allen of Atlanta, 6-3, 6-1. Lesch sprang the biggest upset of the tournament by beating the top-seeded junior, Jon Douglas, 4-6, Jerry Moss of Jacksonville, Fla., backed up his hard services with sharp net play to defeat Mark Jaffe of Bay City, Mich., 6-3, 6-4, in the junior division. Other quarterfinal survivors were Kalman (Buzzy) Hettleman, the surprising unseeded Duke University student from Baltimore, and third-seeded Mike Franks of Los Angeles. Hettleman polished off thirteenth-seeded Richard Schuette of Houston, Tex., 6-4, 6-4. Franks had it even easier in eliminating John Cranston of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Third-seeded Norman Perry, and Robert Delgado, Los Angeles, defeated fifth-seeded Neil Drury, St. Louis, and Wayne Peacock, Wauwatosa, Wis., 9-7, 1-6, 6-4, in boys' doubles, while Stanley Wilkins, Red Bank, N.J., and Richard Oehn, Hanover, N.H., defeated second-seeded Earl Buchholz and Dick Horwitz, St. Louis, 6-2, 6-1.

Ham Richardson Upset By Clark at Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 1 (UP)—Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., rallied yesterday after a first-set drubbing to defeat third-seeded Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., 0-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the quarter-finals of the Middle Atlantic Grass Court championship at the Baltimore Country Club.

It was the second consecutive upset victory for Clark, who the day before knocked out first-seeded foreigner Mervin Rose of Australia. Clark is seeded fifth.

Clark faces second-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, in the semifinals today. Trabert defeated seventh-seeded Grant Golden of Chicago, 8-6, 6-1.

Ed Furgol One Stroke Behind Mangrum

St. Louis Pro Again Has a 69

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—The home prospector, Lloyd Mangrum, today celebrated his thirty-ninth birthday as top man at the halfway mark of Tam O'Shanter's "warm-up" gold rush, the $25,000 All-American pro golf tourney.

Mangrum, one of the snappiest looking grandfathers in any line of endeavor, carried a one-stroke lead into the third round of the quest for the All-American's prime $3420 prize with a seven-under-par 137.

The All-American is just a tuneup for next week's Tam $75,000 "world" pro test which pays the winner golf's richest first prize, $25,000.

Mangrum's 68 yesterday nudged him a single stroke ahead of four good journeymen, Ed (Porky) Oliver, Dave Douglas, Jimmy Clark and St. Louis' Ed Furgol, who had a pair of 69s.

Five players, including first-round leader, Marty Furgol, were bracketed at 139 and three strokes off the pace at 140, was another quintet, including the redoubtable Sammy Snead and 1953 P.G.A. champion, Walter Burkemo.

Field Cut to 90.

The others knotted at 139 were Pete Cooper, Lawson Little, Bob Toski and Ted Kroll, like Mangrum, a purple heart veteran of World War II.

In all, 40 players were notched under par 144 for 36 holes as the field of 160 was sliced to some 90 for the final two rounds.

Marty Furgol, starting Thursday with a blistering six-under-par 66, wobbled to a second-round 73 which opened the gate to mustachioed Mangrum.

Mangrum, who operates as Tam's traveling pro, is second to Ben Hogan as 1953's leading money winner with $15,366. He has exercised his golden touch before in this golf circus. In 1948 he swept a $5000 All-American first prize and $10,000 in the "world."

With due respect to Mangrum, without the peerless Hogan in competition, the All-American still looms a toss-up.

Old "Pork Chops" Oliver yesterday had the best round of the meet with a seven-under-par 65. Porky, winner of the Kansas City Open last weekend, seems ready.

Other St. Louis professionals fared as follows:

Don Clarkson 76-75—151, Walter Ambo 73-79—152, and Tom O'Sullivan 78-79—157.

There was two-fold interest in the concurrent All-American women's open. Betty Hicks of Culver City, Calif., missing from this meet for five years, was winging in front by seven strokes with a halfway total of 149, three under women's par.

Threat From Below.

Spectators, at four dollars per head, were wondering if she could keep up the pace against the threat of two seasoned pros, defending Champion Louise Suggs and Patty Berg, tied for second with 156.

The women's sentimental favorite, Babe Zaharias, still remained in the spotlight despite rounds of 82 and 85 for a 167 total which left her 16 strokes off the pace. In her first tourney since a recent cancer operation, the Babe admitted she was "tired" but determined to play all four rounds.

John Levinson, Chicago lawyer, held a one-stroke lead in the All-American men's amateur over Frank Stranahan, the Toledo bridegroom, 143 to 144. Levinson soared to a 75 after an opening 68 while Stranahan tacked a 70 onto his opening 74.

St. Louis's representative in the amateur division, Ken Hellemann, shot a second-round 77 for 152.

Maplewood Victor, Stockhams Win and Lose in Legion Meet

By John J. Archibald
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Aug. 1—A Maplewood team which continued its recent batting surge in its victory over Flat River yesterday, will try to become the first St. Louis area American Legion club to defeat Cape Girardeau in three seasons when they meet in the zone tournament at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Stockham, the other representative, will oppose the loser of the afternoon game at 9:30.

The Stockhams managed to remain in the two-losses-and-out tournament by shellacking Flat River, 15 to 1, in a night game, after being routed by Cape Girardeau in the meet opener—a contest which old soldiers of the Stockham Post may refer to in years to come as "Operation Butterfinger." The total on that one was Cape 16, Stockham 1.

Maplewood quickly reclaimed some prestige for the St. Louis area by defeating Flat River, 8 to 2. Bob Cooper pitched well for Maplewood, but became slightly ill from the intense heat with one out and one on in the seventh, and Bud Schwartz finished the game without further scoring.

Against Flat River's Bob McLeod, a pitcher with a fair reputation and a good curve, Maplewood got ten hits, including a double, triple and home run. Bob Taft had the homer, a slash down the right field line. Next time up, right hander Taft sent the left fielder racing back for his long drive in that direction.

Charley James had the double and triple, as well as a single. Catcher Hank Kuhlmann collected three singles.

It Was a Nightmare.

The Stockham-Cape affair was a nightmare for the previously unbeaten St. Louisans, and a joy ride for the two time state champions. It started in the second inning, when Stockham pitcher Bob Prince walked three men and the first of many errors was committed. Coach Al Grosch hoped it was just a momentary wild spell, and had Prince and center fielder LeRoy Thomas exchange positions for the remainder of the inning.

Thomas didn't do badly after walking the first batter, forcing in a run, but his teammates got the jitters or something, and messed up a potential double play, a sure out at the plate, and another probable infield out, all in the same inning. Cape wound up with seven runs on two hits.

Prince came back to the mound in the third and got the tail end of the Cape lineup out without trouble, but in the fourth, two hits, an error, and a walk caused his permanent removal. Ron Dubinsky finished that inning, and pitched part of the fifth, but he wasn't lucky either. Paul Travers pitched to two men, but both got hits, so Don Schaeffer finished. Cape counted seven runs in the inning, on four hits, two official errors, and several other displays of ineptitude by the Stockhams.

Fred Steward pitched well for Cape, but the way things were going, it might not have been a thorough test. In the sixth inning, for instance, Stockham got three singles, but failed to score because a runner was tagged out for rounding second and then walking around in a sort of daze.

Stockhams Come Back.

There was evidence that the Stockhams may not have been demoralized by their defeat when they eliminated Flat River from the tourney by almost the identical score by which they had been trounced.

John King started on the mound for Flat River, but was removed for a pinch hitter after Stockham scored twice in the first inning. Miller relieved, and he was apparently the last hurler on the Flat River team, for he stayed in through a 15-hit Stockham barrage. Ron Probst and Pete Davis had three safeties apiece, each including a triple among his collection. Don Costello hurled, and would have had a shutout except for a pop fly single in the seventh.

Congress Wants AEC to Report On Effects of Atom in Peacetime

Joint Committee Head Asks Commission to Take On More Responsibility and Make Plans More Definite.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 — The Atomic Energy Commission faces a congressional request that it take on more responsibility for the effects on the nation's future atomic power industry, and that the commission make its own plans for atomic power development more definite.

The request was addressed to the AEC yesterday by Representative W. Sterling Cole (Rep.), New York, chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, at the close of a five-week series of public hearings on atomic power.

In the course of the hearings, several members of the joint committee have accused the AEC of evading its responsibilities under the so-called McMahon act, the Atomic Energy Act of 1946.

No Reports to Congress.

These Congressmen have objected that the AEC has suggested sweeping changes in the law without making a report to Congress, required by the act, giving an estimate of the "social, political, economic and international effects" of peaceful use of atomic energy.

Such a report is required of the commission "whenever in its opinion any industrial, commercial or other non-military use of fissionable material or atomic energy has been sufficiently developed to be of practical value."

Although the AEC already has produced electricity from atomic plants in small amounts and has been operating a land-based prototype of an atomic submarine reactor for two months, the cost of such power still is much higher than that of conventional power.

In a policy statement last May 26, the AEC concluded that "the time is not yet at hand for the report called for in section 7(B)."

"Estimate" Desired.

The joint committee's request to the AEC said: "It might, nevertheless, be of considerable assistance if the commission were to prepare an estimate of the 'social, political, economic and international effects of such use' as now appear."

Cole said: "This estimate would be helpful in our further consideration of the problems even though it is appreciated that such an estimate might be of an interim nature if the circumstances envisioned by the act have not, in fact, fully developed at this time."

Cole noted also that a number of witnesses at the hearings had referred to "the indefiniteness of commission plans for research and development in the field of atomic power components, pilot plants and prototypes."

He went on:

"It would seem appropriate that plans for commission activity should be set forth in a concise manner so that all interested companies, groups, organizations, or individuals can henceforth have no doubt about the federal program under the existing act.

Proposes Long Range Program.

"I have in mind here that a three-to five-year program consisting of specific research and development projects— perhaps including construction items— might be set forth so that others could adjust their plans accordingly.

"Even though appropriations are determined on a year-to-year basis, it should be possible to carry out planning and programming over a longer term."

Before Cole read the request, the day's only witness, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the commission was asked by Representative Chet Holifield (Dem.), California, whether he thought the AEC should make the section 7(b) report before submitting its specific legislative proposals.

Strauss replied that he did not favor such a report "at the present time."

('I hope you will reconsider," Holifield told him. "Any drastic revision of the act without consideration of those factors raised in section 7(b) would be unwise."

Strauss said he would keep an open mind on that point until he had studied the reasoning of the other commissioners that led to their conclusion that the time for the report had not yet arrived.

Urges Easier Patent Rules.

Liberalization of patent provisions should be considered at the same time as other proposed changes in the Atomic Energy Act, Strauss told the committee.

He said he hoped the AEC could present to Congress by the end of this year a draft of proposed changes in the McMahon act designed to attract private capital into the production of electricity from atomic energy.

Strauss succeeded Gordon Dean July 2 as commission chairman.

The new chairman, who had earned a reputation as a dissenter in a previous term on the commission, expressed a "minor reservation" concerning present AEC policy which appears to reject "dual-purpose" atomic power.

Under the dual-purpose approach, suggested in 1950 by Charles Allen Thomas, president of Monsanto Chemical Co. of St. Louis, plutonium would be produced along with power. The plutonium would be sold to the Government at a guaranteed price to help pay for the atomic plant and bring down the cost of the power.

Strauss said he was not prepared to rule out the dual-purpose approach. He said he thus differed somewhat with an AEC statement issued last May in which the commission said its objective was "to further the development of nuclear plants which are economically independent of Government commitments to purchase weapons-grade plutonium."

First Statement.

This was Strauss's first public statement on the subject, although the fact that he holds this view had been reported by the Post-Dispatch July 19.

"As of this moment I am not prepared to rule out the possibility of plants which are designed to produce weapons-grade plutonium as a by-product of power," he told the committee.

"I am aware that such plants might involve compromises in design which would qualify the usefulness of power cost information derived from them.

"I am assured that the commission's power policy statement is intended to preclude such dual-purpose plants as a possibility so much as to emphasize the greater desirability of plants which are economically justified in terms of power production alone."

Strauss said he was in general agreement with the AEC's May 26 policy statement, which proposes legislative changes to permit private ownership of nuclear power facilities and private lease or sale of fissionable material.

Draft Held Up.

An AEC draft of specific legislative proposals has been held up by the Bureau of the Budget until changes in patent provisions of the McMahon act can be added. The commission now takes over most atomic patent rights, and no patents are permitted by law in connection with production of fissionable material.

Changes in the patent provisions will be difficult, Strauss said. He went on:

"The spectrum of choice here lies all the way from complete government monopoly at one extreme to a return to our traditional free enterprise system at the other. . . .

"I do not think we should request or that you should consider amending the law to facilitate the development of industrial nuclear power in other respects without simultaneous action in the patent field."

With regard to patents, the policy statement had said only that it favored "more liberal patent rights than are presently granted to outside groups as may seem appropriate to the commission and consistent with existing law."

Asks Knotty Questions.

Strauss fended off any detailed interrogation by the joint committee by himself asking a series of knotty questions such as "What are the minimum patent rights that would be required to insure industrial participation?"

He said: "I am hopeful that you will not ask me these questions or others like them this afternoon. Some are just not presently answerable. Some are not properly answerable by me, after only three weeks on this job. Some have never as yet engaged the commission's attention, though they eventually must do so."

He said his general position still could be expressed by his answer to a question by the late Senator Vandenberg in late 1946 or 1947. Strauss's statement, as he recalled it, was:

"I think that under conditions as they exist in the world, and until the military requirements for weapons are fully met, there is no way to administer a force so powerful and so little known, other than as provided in this law.

"It is my hope that in our lifetimes, conditions will improve to the point that atomic energy can be freed of government monopoly and placed in the framework of the American system of free, competitive enterprise."

Urges More Plutonium.

After the hearing, the joint committee made public a letter from Edward Teller, one of the group of physicists who helped produce the atomic bomb.

Teller emphasized the need for greater quantities of plutonium at a lower price, pointing out that as atomic bombs became cheaper an enemy bomber or even an enemy fighter plane might be considered as a possible target.

He said he considered it reasonable for the Government to stimulate atomic power production and obtain plutonium by guaranteeing to purchase militarily useful by-products of atomic plants.

Teller thus supported the "dual-purpose" approach to atomic power suggested by Charles Allen Thomas.

2 STRUCK, KILLED BY AUTOMOBILES IN ST. LOUIS AREA

Man Hit on Highway After His Machine Has Flat Tire — Auto Pins Boy to Tree.

Two persons were killed when struck by automobiles in the St. Louis area last night and today.

Elbert E. Turnbull, a laborer, 2226 South Third street, was killed when hit by a machine on United States Highway 61 a half mile south of Imperial in Jefferson county early today.

State Highway Patrol troopers reported he had had tire trouble and had parked his automobile on the west shoulder of the highway, removing the wheel and taking it a short distance back up the road to be repaired.

As he was returning to the automobile, rolling the tire along the shoulder, it apparently got away from him and rolled out into the highway. He ran after it and was struck by a southbound matchine driven by Frank J. Bruckner of Arnold.

John Morris Jr., 9-year-old Negro, 1123 Winton street, Kinloch, was killed last night when he was pinned against a tree at the intersection of Carson road and Bangert street, Kinloch, in front of a restaurant operated by his parents.

The boy was sitting on a milk case, leaning against the tree trunk, when he was hit by a machine driven by Jess Nollie, Negro, 3501 Clark avenue. Nollie told police he was southbound in Carson road when another machine came out of Bangert street at a high rate of speed. He said he swerved to avoid a collision with the other automobile and ran into the tree. He did not see the boy, he said.

DEATH FOR BRITISH WOMAN WHO GAVE INVALID POISON

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 1 (UP)—Mrs. Louisa Merrifield, 46 years old, was sentenced to death last night for feeding a mixture of rum and rat poison to an invalid widow. Justice Hildreth Glyn-Jones, in pronouncing the sentence to the gallows, called it "as wicked and cruel a murder as I ever heard of."

A jury deliberated five hours and 45 minutes before finding Mrs. Merrifield guilty of murdering Mrs. Sarah Ricketts, 79, by concealing the poison in spoonful of rum and brandy.

Mrs. Ricketts, who kept liquor and currant jam at her bedside, hired the housekeeper and her 71-year-old husband, Alfred Edward Merrifield, to care for her last March and willed her bungalow to them. She was dead in a few weeks.

ARGENTINA, RUSSIA TO SIGN TRADE PACT, PERON SAYS

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 1 (AP) President Juan D. Peron's government said yesterday Argentina and Russia will sign a mutual trade pact Aug. 5.

Unofficial sources said the deal involves an exchange of $300,000,000 worth of goods. These sources said Argentina will obtain from Russia 500,000 tons of oil and 300,000 tons of coal in return for 75,000 tons of linseed oil, 20,000 tons of leather and 20,000 tons of wools.

STASSEN NAMED CHIEF OF NEW FOREIGN AGENCY

Director of MSA, Abolished Under Reorganization, Gets New Position.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Harold E. Stassen to be director of the new Foreign Operations Administration.

Stassen has been director of the Mutual Security Agency, which was abolished and given the new title under a reorganization effective today.

The President also nominated Stassen's two top aids, William McNear Rand of Massachusetts, formerly of the Monsanto Chemical Co., St. Louis, to be deputy director of the new administration, the same title he held under MSA, and Walter S. DeLany of the District of Columbia to be deputy administrator of the Mutual Defense Assistance Control Act.

Two New Federal Agencies Go Into Operation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—Two new Government agencies came into official existence today—the International Information Administration and the Foreign Operations Administration.

Main effect of the reorganization is to relieve the State Department of almost all operating functions. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles strongly favored the move.

It makes an independent function of the Voice of America and other overseas information programs which have been attacked by Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin. It also permits Dulles to forget about day-to-day operations of America's foreign aid program.

The reorganization was announced by the White House June 1. It went into effect at midnight. The law gave Congress 60 days to veto the plan, but no such action was taken.

The new information agency will be responsible for all overseas information programs. Most of these have been operated by the State Department's International Information Administration.

New chief of the information program will be Theodore C. Streibert, former New York radio executive who has been a consultant in the public affairs office of James B. Conant, United States high commissioner for Germany.

The new Foreign Operations Administration will take over functions of the Mutual Security Agency, Technical Co-operation Administration (point IV) and the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

N. B. SWIFT, PACKING FIRM OFFICER, KILLED IN CRASH

UNION PIER, Mich., Aug. 1 (AP)—Nathan Butler Swift, 41 years old, vice president of Swift & Co., meat packing firm, was killed last night in an automobile accident.

Swift's English sports car was rammed broadside by an automobile driven by Semour Gottlieb, Lakeside, Mich., on U. S. 12 when Swift drove onto the highway from a restaurant where he had dined.

Swift lived in Chticago. He and his wife and two children also have a summer home at Lakeside, Mich.

He was a great-grandson of Gustavus Swift, who founded the meat processing firm in 1885 in Chicago.

RUSSIA TRYING TO BUY 40 SMALL BRITISH SHIPS

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Russia has put in a bid to buy about 40 small ships from British shipbuilders at a cost of many million dollars.

A Board of Trade spokesman said yesterday the British Government is considering the strategic implications of the Soviet orders, which have been spread among shipbuilders in England and Scotland.

The board, which has the final say on whether war potential goods and materials should be supplied to Communist nations, has called for the advice of Admiralty experts to establish whether the Russian orders—mainly for factory and fishing vessels—will breach the Allied embargo.

CONVICTED OF MURDERING WIFE, HAD SON FIRE SHOT

MODESTO, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—Henry C. Simpson, a 58-year-old carpenter accused of murdering his wife by inducing their 13-year-old son to shoot her, was convicted of first-degree murder yesterday in superior court.

The 10-woman, two-man jury made no recommendation for clemency, which means that Simpson will be executed unless he is found insane at a hearing scheduled for Aug. 11.

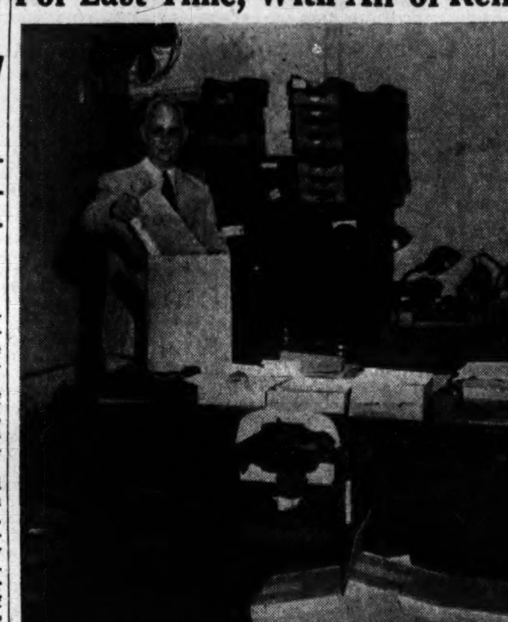

The son, Clarence, admitted firing the fatal shot. He also is charged with murder, but no date has been set for his trial.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN AMONG 20 VICTIMS IN BUS PLUNGE

MORRISBURG, Ont., Aug. 1 (AP)—A California woman—Mrs. Margaret McKee of Butte City—was identified today among the 20 passengers who perished when a bus plunged into a canal two miles west of here.

The bus, running between Toronto and Montreal, smashed into a small parked truck yesterday and then hurtled into 20 feet of water. Seventeen persons survived the accident. Most of the casualties were Canadians.

Area Rent Chief Shuts Office For Last Time, With Air of Relief

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

GROVER C. VANDOVER, preparing to close the rent control office in the Old Post Office building yesterday.

'It's Been a Hard Job,' Grover C. Vandover Says—'An Umpire From Morning Until Night.'

Grover C. Vandover, soft-spoken director of the St. Louis area rent control office, seemed relieved as he closed the agency's doors for the last time yesterday.

"It's been a hard job," Vandover reflected. "When you have people to contend with all day long and they all want something, you're an umpire from morning until night every day."

Rent controls in St. Louis and over most of the nation ended officially at midnight last night and the St. Louis office, which has been conducting a "mothballing" operation for most of the past month, closed up shop yesterday afternoon.

Vandover, 69 years old and white-haired, took charge of the St. Louis office June 6, 1942, "on a day almost as hot as today," he recalled. The agency was at first in the Paul Brown building and then, after World War II, moved into quarters on the fourth floor of the old Post Office, Eighth and Olive streets.

150,000 Rent Adjustments.

Seated in a dingy office surrounded by desks, chairs and other unused equipment, the rent director recalled that, when the office opened, more than 275,000 rental unit registrations were received.

Since that time, he estimated, the office has made more than 150,000 adjustments of rent for tenants and landlords.

As might be expected, Vandover received his share of irate complainants who thought they weren't being treated fairly by the office.

On one occasion a woman whose property was in the process of being foreclosed, in a gesture of defiance, deeded the property to Vandover. The director, keeping calm as he always advised the office's employes to do, simply deeded it back to her.

"We had a few chronic complainers, too," Vandover said. "One man came to us a dozen or more times on one question and he never was satisfied, even though he appealed our decision to the advisory board in Washington and finally to a court of appeals. I guess he'll finally be happy now."

Praise for Landlords.

Vandover, however, had a word of praise for landlords. "We always got along very well with the real estate fraternity," he said. "They were a very co-operative and law-abiding group."

His philosophy for dealing with tenants and landlords in adjustment of rents, he said was to "be fair and above board, use good judgment, sound discretion and a lot of horse sense."

On the removal of rent controls, his opinion was just as philosophical. "It had to come and maybe it's just as well now as later on," he commented.

With the closing of the office, Vandover began his retirement after 23 years of service with the Federal Government. Prior to appointment to the rent control position, he had been state director of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

"I've been hoping a little for this day to come and the opportunity to retire," Vandover said. "After all, I've been here longer than I thought I'd be. Rent control was extended 15 times, you know."

U.S. TURNS DOWN RUSSIAN PROTEST ON DOWNED PLANE

the Chinese town of Huadian, described as 110 kilometers (about 68 miles) from the Korean border. The note said it was following its established route on a regular flight from Port Arthur to the U.S.S.R.

Port Arthur, at the tip of the Kwantung peninsula, is a heavily fortified base which was captured by the Russians in 1945 from the Japanese. It is now leased to the Russians.

There was unconfirmed speculation at the time that the Soviet plane might have been carrying Communist authorities on a mission connected with the armistice signed last Monday. The Russian protest said the plane carried 15 passengers and a crew of six.

(Capt. Parr, who was flying a Sabre jet, was credited at the time with the last "kill" of the war. It occurred after the armistice was signed at Panmunjom but more than 10 hours before the cease-fire became effective.)

Red Planes Over America.

In the midst of the furore over the latest two shooting incidents, Air Force sources said Russian planes have appeared about 12 times in the last year over the far northern reaches of the American continent and Greenland and have conducted scouting expeditions over Japan on the average of once every two weeks.

Last March 15, a United States B-50 was attacked by Soviet MIG fighters over Arctic waters some 25 miles east of the Siberian peninsula of Kamchatka. Neither plane was damaged.

At that time Flanders sharply critized the Air Force for issuing what he said was "a false report" in stating the bomber was on a routine weather reconnaisance flight off the Russian coast.

Flanders called this preposterous and at that time said "the Russians appear to have been discreet in warning it off."

This time, Flanders said he believes the United States bomber had a right under international law to be in the area and "so far as I can see the Air Force has given out false information."

"The Russians have been trying to establish long-range rights to open waters near their shores," he said. "This is in violation of international law although I presume we would not enjoy having Russian planes flying near our shores.

"We can't afford to let the Russians get away with this without asking for indemnity and abandonment of the practice."

Following is the text of the latest Soviet note:

"According to checked reports by competent Soviet organs, on July 27, 1953, at 0628 Moscow time (10:28 p.m. July 26 St. Louis time) four United States fighters invaded the frontiers of the Chinese People's Republic and attacked and brought down near the town of Huadian, which is 110 kilometers from the Chinese-Korean frontier, a Soviet passenger aircraft IL-12 which was on a regular flight from Port Arthur to the U.S.S.R. and was following the established route.

"The Soviet government resolutely protests against this pirate-like attack by United States military planes on a Soviet passenger aircraft which was flying over territory of the Chinese People's Republic and expects the United States Government to take measures to severely punish the people guilty for this attack and see that it will not allow any future criminal action by United States military commands.

"Fifteen passengers and six members of the crew of the Soviet plane were killed. The Soviet government reserves the right to demand from the government of the U. S. A. payment of compensation in connection with the deaths of the above mentioned 21 Soviet citizens and the loss of the aircraft."

Handed to Bohlen.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the protest to Ambassador Bohlen in Moscow yesterday.

Less than 24 hours before, Bohlen had delivered the strongly worded United States protest to Russia on the shooting down of the B-50 bomber off Siberia.

The United States demanded an "immediate report" on the condition of survivors believed rescued by Soviet vessels. Sixteen men aboard the B-50 are missing. Capt. Roche was the only one rescued by the United States.

The United States said the B-50 was shot down Wednesday while on a routine training mission by one or more Soviet MIG fighters over the Sea of Japan about 40 miles off Cape Povortny.

The Russians themselves fired off an earlier protest over the B-50 incident Thursday night, charging that the American plane had flown over Russian territory and fired on a Soviet fighter that challenged it. The Russians denied any knowledge of the fate of the B-50, claiming it disappeared toward the sea after the exchange of fire.

FOE OF PREMIER URGES BOYCOTT OF IRAN VOTE

Moslem Leader Invokes Religious Bar on Plebisite on Future of Parliament.

TEHRAN, Aug. 1 (AP)—Opposition leader Ayatollah Kashani today called on Iranians to defy Premier Mohammed Mossadegh by boycotting Monday's plebiscite on the future of the Majlis (lower house of Parliament).

Kashani, a religious leader who commands a strong following among Iran's estimated 15,000,000 Moslems, said in a public declaration, "No patriotic Moslem will take part."

He termed the non-secret referendum, in which Mossadegh wants Iranians to vote for dissolution of the Majlis, illegal, unconstitutional and destructive.

Forbidding Iran's Moslems to go to the ballot boxes, Kashani used the Arabic word "haraam" (forbidden by religion), which gives the pronouncement the full weight of Moslem ecclesiastical authority when used by an official of Kashani's standing.

Kashani's pronouncement is expected to be distributed in handbill form some time today.

Referendum balloting is scheduled to start in Tehran and two outlying districts Monday and at an unannounced later date in other parts of the country.

Voters have been directed by cabinet decree to sign their names and addresses and to give their identity card numbers on the ballot slips.

Kashani's move is the latest in the long drawn-out parliamentary crisis which started in mid-July when pro-Mossadegh deputies resigned from the Majlis en masse. They were gradually followed by independent splinter groups. The rump Majlis of 23 diehards clustered around Kashani is impotent but still defiant.

The Communists, who have supported Mossadegh as he tilts with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and the Majlis, are beating the big drum in their papers and speeches in an effort to rally an all-out plebiscite vote dissolving the Majlis.

LODGE DROPS HUNT FOR HOUSE AFTER NEW FUND SLASH

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and his reduced United States delegation to the United Nations are down to their last two limousines.

The $25,000-a-year top delegate to the U.N. has abandoned his search for a house in Manhattan, which would have cost a pretty penny. He will remain at the luxurious embassy apartment in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, for which he draws an allowance of $17,000 extra annually.

Lodge and his aids are not complaining at the cuts handed out by Congress, which reduced the delegation to the smallest size in its history.

Congress slashed the delegation appropriation, from $960,0000 for the fiscal year ending last June 30 to $800,000 for the current fiscal year.

The peak number of workers in the mission was in 1948 when 190 persons were on the payroll. On July 1, 1952, the number was 155. The mission now has 129, but by mid-August there will be an even 100.

In addition to the two automobiles left to the delegation, used by Lodge and by his deputy, James J. Wadsworth, the mission has one station wagon for messenger service and other uses.

MINERS SAY COAL MAN TRIES TO SABOTAGE BARGAINING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—The United Mine Workers accused a southern soft coal industry leader today of "seeking to sabotage" collective bargaining in the coal industry.

An editorial in the UMW Monthly Journal attacked Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Operators Association, for his recent statement that the coal industry was "sick" and any further wage increases would be an "economic outrage."

"It's the old game of seeking to bypass or sabotage collective bargaining by advance speeches—all for the purpose of obscuring the facts and prejudicing the public mind," the editorial said.

Coal contracts throughout the industry call for 60-day cancellation notice after Aug. 1 by either labor or management, with the miners free to strike at the end of that period. There has been no sign that John L. Lewis, UMW chief, is ready to make his move.

ROBERT F. KENNEDY RESIGNS AS M'CARTHY COMMITTEE AID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin announced yesterday the resignation of Robert F. Kennedy as assistant counsel of his special Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Kennedy, 28 years old, is a brother of Senator John Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, and a son of Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to England. His letter of resignation said he was resigning to enter private law practice.

McCarthy's staff said Kennedy had served the subcommittee seven months but they did not know his salary.

Praise for a General

'The Little Bulldog' Who Saved Korea

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP).

THE man who saved Korea was "the Little Bulldog." He was Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, first of the Eighth Army's four commanders in the 37-month Korean campaign.

GEN. WALKER

And when the military history of that frustrating operation is written it must show "Johnny" Walker as a crucial figure. One wrong guess by him and the war would have been over within the first two months. We would have been shoved off the peninsula.

Most generals prefer to fight cautiously. A few generals like to gamble boldly in attack. A truly fine general is one able to fight with equal genius either on the offensive or on the defensive.

"The Little Bulldog," a squat, plump, square-jawed Texan who looked more like a small town business man than an army commander, proved before his death he could do both superbly well.

★ ★ ★

"JOHNNY" WALKER won his fame as leader of the 20th "Ghost" Corps, which spearheaded the Third Army in Europe in the second World War. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. was so pleased with his bold victories that he personally pinned on him the three-star insignia of a lieutenant general which Gen. Eisenhower had given Patton.

Gen. Walker liked to recall that time in the early days in Korea, when he commanded surely one of the weakest armies ever to take the field anywhere.

His task was to retreat as slowly as possible while regrouping the shattered South Korean forces and building up the American Corps as fast as troops could be ferried to the front. He was unable to man a continuous battleline. He was short of everything—men, tanks, anti-tank weapons, artillery.

★ ★ ★

WALKER SAVED THE DAY by a defensive that amounted to an offensive. He shuttled regiments and battalions and companies around the front in a continuous razzle-dazzle, throwing the enemy off balance by magically showing strength where they least expected it.

At one time his force was so completely committed that if guerillas behind the line had attacked his own headquarters he wouldn't have been able to summon another platoon to defend it.

"You won't find that in the books, will you?" he told a correspondent later. "They would say you were crazy to fight a war without reserves. But that's what we are doing—because we have to."

★ ★ ★

HIS FAMOUS "stand or die" order when he created the Naktong river defense line seemed hopeless. But Walker rode the front like a madman, standing up in his armored jeep and gripping a handrail as he gave orders.

The line bent, but never broke. "The Little Bulldog" had to strain his line to the utmost by pulling out the First Marine Division, which was to land behind the enemy in the Inchon invasion on Sept. 15. His weakened army then took its heaviest blows—and still held.

The day after the Inchon landing, Walker immediately switched to the offensive again and predicted the war "should quickly be over" unless the enemy was reinforced. Did he foresee the entry of the Red Chinese? Certainly he was well aware of the possibility.

Walker smashed fiercely through the North Korean crust before him, and in the kind of pursuit he enjoyed raced clear to the Yalu river before ambushing Chinese forced him to draw back.

★ ★ ★

IT IS QUESTIONABLE whether Walker thought the later "win-the-war" offensive in November was wisely conceived—but he carried out his orders. When it was smashed, he pulled back 120 miles in an orderly retreat.

"My Army isn't whipped," he said, almost wistfully. "I'm proud of the way it came out of the offensive. And we will fight again."

But death prevented him from seeing his Army's resurgence. Ironically, he died in a traffic accident, as had his idol, Gen. Patton. He was killed Dec. 23, 1950, when his jeep crashed into a truck driven by a South Korean soldier.

"The Little Bulldog" now sleeps in Arlington Cemetery. But his true monument is the American Eighth Army he welded in Korea.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

FORMER Defense Secretary Bob Lovett, who learned the ways of Pentagon folk, has this suggestion for all Government officials: "If you want prompt action on something, have 30 copies made. If you want very prompt action, have 80 copies made. But if you want doggone prompt action, make a single copy and take it around to the proper office yourself."

★ ★ ★

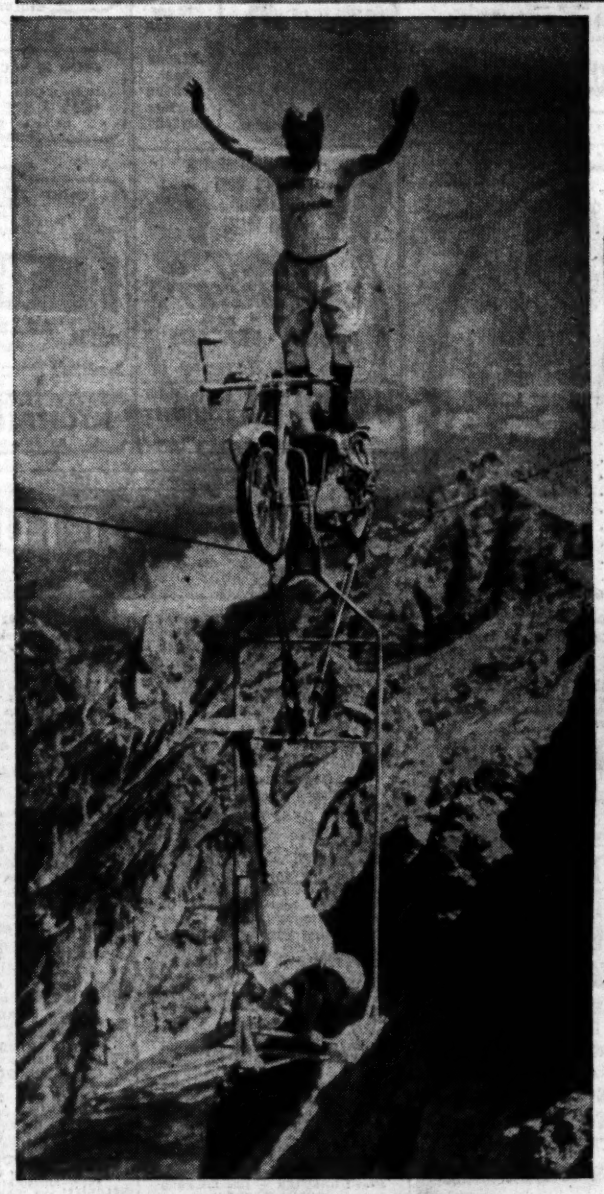

A CORRESPONDENT gleefully recalls a parody of an old melodrama that used to bring howls around the Keith-Orpheum circuit. It was climaxed by a cruel father evicting his beautiful daughter. "What's she done, squire?" implored a trusty servant. "She ain't done a durn thing," admitted the father, "but it's snowin' to beat tarnation and—out she goes!"

Some Relief From Heat in Sight---IF

Weather conditions as of 1:30 a.m., C.D.T., Aug. 1. Temperature figures show average for area. Arrows denote wind flow; shaded areas indicate rain. Barometric highs and lows in inches.

St. Louisans may get relief from the hot and humid weather Monday, if the low pressure area in the Northern Plains states continues its movement eastward, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said.

Partly cloudy skies here today and tomorrow with afternoon temperatures near 100 and a low tomorrow morning of near 80 were forecast by the St. Louis Weather Bureau. Wahlgren said there is a likelihood of showers late today or tomorrow evening.

The low area is expected to move tomorrow to western Minnesota with a warm front extending along the state's western border to central West Virginia. A high area in southern Florida should move to the Alabama-Georgia border and another in the southwest to Utah. A cold front will run tomorrow from the northwest tip of South Dakota to the southwestern Wyoming border.

Thundershowers were widely scattered yesterday in the St. Louis area. Rainfall totaled .44 of an inch at Valley Park and .02 at Webster Groves. Heavy rain totaling 1.71 inches fell yesterday at New Orleans, 1.61 at Houston, Tex., and 1.48 at Lone Rock, Wis.

Scattered showers are forecast for tonight in the western Lakes region, northern and central Plains states, central Rockies, southwest desert region and southern California, as shown by the map at left.

Yesterday's 102-degree maximum temperature here made the fifth consecutive day of plus 100 and set a new record high for the day. Previous record was 100, which was established in 1854. Highest in the nation yesterday was 108 at Union, Mo.

PERJURY REVIEW IS INDICATED IN PASTOR INQUIRY

'Considerable Evidence' of Lying at Minister's Red Hearing, Velde Says.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The perjury accusations freely made in connection with investigation of a clergyman's alleged links with Communists seemed headed today for official review by the Department of Justice.

Chairman Velde (Rep.), Illinois, of the House Un-American Activities Committee, said there was "considerable evidence that perjury has been committed" in the two-day, sometimes raucous questioning of the Rev. Jack Richard McMichael, whose testimony often clashed with that of other witnesses.

Velde said "investigation and prosecution for perjury" could not be recommended by the committee "until it has a meeting to discuss all of the facts."

Representative Doyle (Dem.), California, said after the Methodist minister was excused from the witness stand late yesterday: "It is obvious the record will have to be referred to the Justice Department."

Clardy's View.

Representative Clardy (Rep.), Michigan, said "the record ought to be sent to the Justice Department right away."

The Rev. Mr. McMichael called two of his accusers, Manning Johnson and Leonard Patterson, "Liars and perjurers" and said "they ought to be so charged and tried."

He left for his Upper Lake (Calif.) home last night under subpena for further questioning, probably in September.

(The first clergyman ever subpenaed by the committee, the Rev. Mr. McMichael was given a chance to face the persons who had supplied some of the information which prompted the hearing after publication of the charges against him.

First, there was Johnson, a New York Negro described as a former Communist, who told the committee that he knew the Rev. Mr. McMichael as a fellow Red in the 1930s.

The minister said: "I don't recognize him by his name or by his appearance."

Denies Knowing Pair.

Later he looked at a husband-and-wife team of Federal Bureau of Investigation undercover agents—John J. and Martha N. Edmiston—and said he did not recognize them, either.

Johnson, who was not placed on the stand for examination, told reporters the Rev. Mr. McMichael was the man he reported on in his testimony

Martha Edmiston testified she recognized the Rev. Mr. McMichael, that she and her husband met him at an Ohio Youth Congress meeting at Columbus in June 1940, and that the three talked about how the FBI undercover operatives could be spotted.

Her husband corroborated Mrs. Edmiston's testimony.

The Rev. Mr. McMichael denied under oath ever having been a member of the Communist party. He also said he had no recollection of attending the Columbus meeting described by the Edmistons.

He told reporters he would prepare "documentary answers" to the charges made against him and offer them to the committee.

Proclaims United Nations Day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday designated Oct. 24 as United Nations day, saying "the need for the international organization is greater than ever before."

Keller, a pilot with the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea, was presented the award and a citation for "bombing accuracy and exemplary leadership in organizing and directing his flight." ILLINOIS ACCOUNTANT GETS THREE YEARS IN TAX FRAUD

DANVILLE, Ill. (UP) — Accountant Spencer E. Lorton Friday was sentenced to three years and fined $10,000 for preparing fraudulent income tax returns for his clients.

Immediately after sentencing by United States District Judge Caspar Platt, the Springfield and Cowden (Ill.) accountant filed notice of an appeal to the United States Court of Appeals. Lorton was found guilty by a jury of reducing the reported income of four clients in order to lower their taxes.

Bond for his appearance pending appeal was set at $20,000. With additional fine and cost bonds the total price for his release was $32,000. Unable to make bond immediately, Lorton was taken to Vermilion county jail.

RED CHINA THANKS RUSSIA FOR HELP IN GETTING TRUCE

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Red China thanked Russia today for its help in obtaining a settlement in Korea.

"A Korean armistice would not have been possible without the initiative and support of the Soviet Union," the Peiping radio said, quoting replies sent by Premier Mao Tse-tung and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Charles Farrell Out as Mayor.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—Television actor Charles Farrell is out as mayor of Palm Springs. The other four members of the city council, with whom he split over dismissal of the city manager, yesterday accepted with regret the resignation he submitted last week. Florian Boyd, senior member of the council, was named mayor.

5 REPORTED SHOT BY REDS FOR BUYING RICE IN CHINA

HONG KONG, Aug. 1 (AP)—The independent Kung Sheung Daily News said today in a dispatch from Waiyeung in Kwangtung province that the Chinese Communists have shot five rice dealers for buying rice from farmers.

Floods and drouth cut down the 1953 crop and the Red government has been buying much at its own low price. It has campaigned against private buyers who pay higher prices, but this was the first recent report of executions.

GRENADE KILLS MAN IN G.I.-CIVILIAN FIGHT

Between 18 and 30 Hurt in Brawl Over 50-Cent Sandwich.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Aug. 1 (AP)—A thrown hand grenade killed one man and injured between 18 and 30 persons early today in a fight between Camp Breckinridge soldiers and civilians outside an all-night restaurant.

Sheriff Frank McDonald of Vanderburgh county said Jesse Triggs, 38 years old, Evansville, was killed.

Cpl. James B. Madison, 23-year-old Korea war veteran from Oakland, Calif., was held without charge pending an inquest.

(The United Press said all the participants were Negroes. It said 17 persons were treated at hospitals and released, and that 12 others suffered minor injuries.)

Sheriff McDonald said eyewitnesses gave this account of the fight:

Cpl. Madison and a civilian argued over a 50-cent sandwich in Ted Cole's restaurant, just south of Evansville near the Kentucky state line.

The civilian knocked the sandwich from Madison's hand and the two went outside to fight. Another civilian joined Madison's opponent and Madison was joined by another Camp Breckenridge soldier.

About 30 soldiers and civilians poured out of the restaurant and joined in a general fight.

Madison and another soldier, Lawrence Terry, retreated to an automobile. They were joined in the car by three other persons and somebody threw the grenade from the back seat.

Frank Couch, Evansville, employe of the restaurant, saw the grenade land and kicked it away from the main body of the crowd before it exploded.

Camp Breckinridge military police helped civil authorities round up participants in the fight who were not wounded.

Cpl. Madison denied throwing the grenade. He returned from Korea last February after 11 months' service.

Both Madison and Pvt. Eddie Wright, one of the seriously wounded by the grenade, were members of an ammunition section.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Dear Martha:

SOME time ago I married a very good man. We have slight disagreements but are able to cope with most problems. My big complaint is that his table manners are simply awful, and he murders the English language to such a point that it goes against my better nature. He can do things very nicely and works very hard. He is honest and sincere. I wonder if you could suggest something I might do to change this terrible situation.

UNHAPPY.

Surely you knew about his poor grammar and careless manners before you married him. I don't blame you for wishing he had more polish, but you should have realized that these faults would not change after marriage. Too many women have tried to "reform" their husbands and have either given up in despair or ruined their marriages. If you can subtly and without fault-finding help him improve his English and his manners, it would be all right. Perhaps you could suggest that both of you study a certain book or take a special course and in that way avoid the role of critic. But meanwhile, remember his good qualities. Many a woman would gladly trade continental manners and savoir faire for honesty and sincerity and kindness.

Dear Martha:

I AM 15 YEARS OLD and go with a boy who is 17. He asked me to marry him and I said I would. We are supposed to get married in November. My sister was married when she was 16 and now has two children. She says I will be sorry just as she is. This boy and I are of different religious faiths and his family will not let him marry in my church. Would you advise me to marry in his church or wait until things change? My mother keeps telling me I should wait. I don't know what to do. He is a very nice boy and I have already told him yes. If I were going to wait, how would I explain?

CATHY.

The fact that you have promised to marry him doesn't mean you can't change your mind and ask him to wait—even several years, if necessary. You are far too young to be thinking of marriage and the fact that both your sister and your mother have asked you to postpone the wedding should make you realize that you probably would be making a serious mistake to go ahead with your plans. All this is apart from the fact that you are of different religious faiths, and it seems to me that even before you agreed to become engaged you should have discussed the problem with your clergyman. It isn't too late to do that now, but whatever your decision on that matter, I can only urge you to postpone the marriage until you are sure it is right. You can simply tell him that after thinking it over and talking with your mother and sister, you realize you are too young.

IN ANSWER TO Wondering: If you honestly don't want to come between your friend and her boy friend, you'll have to make up your mind to cross him off the list and start going with other boys. Be fair.

A scavenger hunt is a good way to entertain the gang this summer. For your free copy of directions, please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, addressed to Martha Carr.

Home Furnishings

By Angelo Patri

A HOME is built through the affectionate and co-operative efforts of a mother and father. To them there is something almost sacred about many of the objects that are part of their domicile. Children should be taught to respect the furnishings of their home.

When a child returns from playing, with mud on his feet, his clothes grimy, it is exasperating to the parents to see this youngster leap on a sofa, which they have scrimped and saved to buy. Likewise, mother and father are angered when the lawn is spoiled by their children and their companions playing cops and robbers.

★ ★ ★

CHILDREN when young fail to understand such matters. Parents love their offspring and don't want to be constantly reproaching them. But youngsters should be taught to behave properly, to respect their home, and be made to realize that they must not soil or spoil the furniture. It would be well for the father to stress, if the child is old enough to understand, the great effort he and Mom made to have certain pieces of furniture in the rooms of their abode.

Yes, children must be enlightened, trained and disciplined until they grasp the idea that when they soil something they are giving their mother pain as well as extra work. Children must learn that thoughtlessness for others and bad manners will not be overlooked. They should be deprived of something as a penalty and made to understand why.

★ ★ ★

NO CHILD should be permitted to enter the living room wearing his play shoes and overalls. He should be told to change his clothes. Then, perhaps it might be a good idea for him to have a little chair suitable to his size, and perhaps a small table. Ownership of such things makes the child feel bigger and it may help him to have respect for the belongings of others. In time he will understand why grownups don't want their belongings broken, soiled or roughly used. There should be a handy place for the boy to put his outdoor clothes, rubbers and other belongings—a place for him alone. That will soon impress upon him the idea that his things must be put there.

One of the first steps toward teaching children respect for home furnishings and the property of others, is personal ownership. The next is the routined discipline connected with ownership. That, with the example set by his parents, will make a child realize that he must be careful and clean when he enters the living room.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A VERY real problem is explained in this letter: "We entertain quite a lot and also have guests stay in our house rather frequently. Very often these guests use our telephone. As my husband and I use it a good deal ourselves, we use up our allotted calls and these extra calls made by our guests (many of them toll calls) added to our bill each month, make it quite high. The other day, I received through the mail, a mite box from a charitable organization to which my husband and I always contribute, and the thought struck me to put this mite box on the telephone table so that those using the telephone might be prompted to put their coins in it. Then when it is filled I could send it to the particular charity as my husband's and my donation. Will you please give me your opinion of this?"

Putting out your mite box—no! The only thing you could do is to put up a list of the nearby long-distance toll charges near your telephone and hope your guests will leave the money for them.

Create a Wall That Decorates

By Elizabeth Hillyer

AT least one wall in a room should be distinctive, should decorate the room rather than be mere background.

Most walls are quite naturally background, to be decorated by no more than a paint color, a furniture arrangement against them, or perhaps wallpaper pattern or pictures and mirrors

* * *

SOME WALLS, however, can hardly be called background, a wall with a handsome fireplace on it, for example, is so often the most important feature of a room and definitely room decoration. A window wall, too, brings in a view to decorate by day and swings closed draperies to decorate by night.

But what if the room lacks a wall that decorates? So many rooms do, in apartment buildings economically constructed, in stock plan houses, in remodeled properties which lose so much in the cutting up of big rooms into small ones.

* * *

IF THE ROOM lacks a wall that decorates, today's decorating idea men say, the thing to do is to create one.

Here William Pahlmann, A.I.D., interior and furniture designer, has used a shutter idea to create a distinctive wall. Book shelves are recessed and the wall is faced with louvered panels from the floor to the ceiling, and one of them even turns a corner onto a second wall in an interesting way.

The idea is simple, but the pattern of the slats and the light and shadow that play on them make an eye-catching feature of what would otherwise be a plain surface of wall.

* * *

THIS ROOM began with a handsome carpet called Tweed in a color scheme inspiring combination of yellow-green, beige and tangerine with accents of peacock blue.

The beige of the carpet is repeated by the shutters and the brighter colors are picked up in the furniture covers.

The furniture is of Pahlmann's design from the large grouping called Hastings Square.

My Day

Third Visit To Library In Windsor

By Eleanor Roosevelt

LONDON.

WE had a wonderful day yesterday, driving out to Windsor, the three of us, with Mr. and Mrs. James B. Carey. There we were met by Sir Owen Morshead, who kindly took us through the library. The library at Windsor is always for me one of the things I want to return to when I am in England: each time I go there, and yesterday was my third visit, I see some new treasures, and take away some new things to think about. Yesterday, we saw the perfectly beautiful collection of miniatures. I also saw letters which I had never seen before, and had time to look at some of the prints.

The Queen has the best collection of Leonardo da Vinci and Holbein prints anywhere in the world, and though you can only look at a few, they are a constant joy to remember.

* * *

THEN SIR OWEN was kind enough to take us through some of the public rooms at Windsor, and even to let us see some of the private apartments, which was fun for me, as I could tell my grandchildren just which room I had had the weekend I spent at Windsor some years ago and show them, from the window, the views which I think are so beautiful.

Windsor was, of course, a castle which was meant for the protection of the countryside all around. From the library you can see how sheer the walls run, straight to the ground. The old Norman tower, which always gives me a sense of real age, stands up just as a watchtower should, and I am sure that all of us carried away from Windsor an appreciation of its history and a joy in the things that we were able to see.

* * *

WE HAD a hurried lunch at the airport restaurant, on our way to Syon House—it was a curious place to choose for lunch but Sir Owen suggested it to us as the best place to go, so as not to lose time. As it was, we were late in reaching Syon House, and were most grateful to the Duchess of Buccleuch for showing us through in the very short time we had at our disposal.

The Adam's Gallery is one of the most charming rooms I have ever seen—what care and detail he put into his work—the carpet was designed in many of the rooms to go with the ceiling, and as you look at the finished whole, you realize how completely everything was made to go together.

Back in London, a little late, I had an hour's talk with some of the labor leaders who had been anxious to ask me a few questions and whom our labor attache brought in.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1.

YES. A study of 100 "miserable marriages" by the Louis W. and Maud Hill Foundation (the beginning of a $200,000, four-year study) revealed that the following personality types seem bound to fail; passive, dependent men and women; anxious, adequate women; controlling, dependent women; controlling, belittling men and women; pain-seeking, long-suffering men and women; detached, ineffectual men and women; hostile, aggressive men and women; vulnerable, susceptible partners, troublesome, ineffectual partners. The final results will be invaluable for counseling both the married and unmarried.

Answer to Question 2.

Yes. Psychologist Norman R. F. Maier says one reason why discoveries are more often made by young men is that older ones know so much they try to solve new problems by using old methods from past experience and knowledge. But young men, not hampered by experience, seek new ways to solve new problems. We say, "Experience is the best teacher," but it's often the worst. Better keep both old and young men in your business.

Answer to Question 3.

For the same reason that a man squirms or twists while asking for a job or proposing marriage to a woman—to work off his nervousness. Hosts of people twist and squirm and rub their faces all the time they are talking. One quick and easy cure for this is explained in our booklet, "Master Your Bad Habits." Sent at cost, 15 cents (coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

THE crucial situation in the following hand required a hair-splitting decision, but, everything considered, there was an edge in favor of the play that actually would have turned out right.

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠854 ♥K62 ♦AQJ10 ♣K103
♠106 ♥97543 ♦6532 ♣97	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠AKQJ97 ♥Q108 ♦94 ♣Q8
	♠32 ♥AJ ♦K87 ♣AJ6542

North	East	South	West
1♠	3♠	4♣	Pass
5♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

East did what he could to keep South quiet, but of course South had a marked overcall of the three-spade pre-emptive, and it was easy for North-South to reach their proper game contract. It is true that South huddled for quite a while when North's five-club bid came around, obviously tempted to bid a slam, but the two losing spades could not well be ignored.

West opened the spade 10; East overtook and led two more rounds of high spades. Thus, at the third trick, South had to make a crucial decision. Who had the club queen? If West had it, South's only play was to ruff the third spade with the ace, then to finesse against West. (There was virtually no chance that East had made his shutout bid on a five-card suit, hence no more chance that West would follow to the third spade.)

After long deliberation, South did ruff with the ace of trumps; then he led the jack of trumps and let it ride. Needless to say, East was rather pleased to win the setting trick.

Beyond question, declarer's decision might have turned out right, and the alternative play of ruffing the spade with the trump jack might have lost on the spot to an over-ruff with the queen by West. But careful analysis will disclose that "percentage" favored the jack-ruff rather than the ace-ruff. Aside from the queen, South also was missing the 9-8-7 of trumps; consequently, the ace-ruff and subsequent finesse could only succeed against the blank queen or Q-x in the West hand. If West had Q-x-x he could not be shut out. This being so, South should not have "placed" West with the queen; he should have ruffed the third spade with the jack, and when West did not overruff, the rest would be easy.

Improvements In Slum Areas

By J. Earl Smith, M.D.

St. Louis Health Commissioner

IN ADDITION to slums there are more than 900 city blocks in St. Louis in which the great majority of buildings do not meet the minimum requirements of safe and healthful occupancy.

These buildings, however, have not reached the point of deterioration where rehabilitation is impractical. Although the touch of slum has been light in these areas, unless an effective barrier can be set up between the two, nothing can prevent the eventual decline of the blighted areas into complete slum.

* * *

IN AN ENDEAVOR to produce such a barrier the Health Division set up the Obsolete Area Improvement Project in 1949. This project includes areas in the Webster, Sheridan, Chouteau and Park avenue neighborhoods.

Every building and dwelling unit receives a thorough inspection, with the investigator noting illegal and insanitary conditions. The responsible parties are required to correct all conditions which may be nuisances or detrimental to public health.

The recorded accomplishments in these slum areas have given rise to some feeling of optimism on the part of the Health Division, to say nothing of the intangible benefits derived by the people who live there.

Up to the present time, each building in almost 200 city blocks has been inspected, and more than 75 per cent of them have been rat stopped and freed of rats.

A general clean-up was affected by seeing that proper garbage and rubbish containers were provided and that refuse accumulationss of all kinds were removed.

A total of 1019 outside toilets have been eliminated and replaced with more than 1500 medern, sanitary inside units.

* * *

IT SHOULD BE UNDERSTOOD that this work is being carried on in slum areas exclusively and is not an attempt at complete rehabilitation.

Despite the condition of the buildings they are still occupied by human beings whose health and welfare must be protected.

Iced Tea

By Edith M. Barber

ICED TEA IS A FINE HOT-WEATHER TREAT WHICH GOES PARTICULARLY WELL WITH LIGHT MEALS. PLENTY OF ICE IS A MUST.

IN warm weather, iced tea is a favorite accompaniment for dinner as well as for lunch. Besides well-made tea, sugar or sugar syrup and lemon, there must be plenty of ice available.

While most of us are content with the blend of the two flavors, lemon and tea, for party service, you may like to add a touch of rum and brandy, to use some sparkling water and, for a special occasion, to add enough champagne to add this word to the title of the recipe.

At a recent party staged on a terrace by the Tea Council, this punch was served in the seeded half of a watermelon. Some wedges of the melon and chilled cherries were offered as well as savory canapes. This party, by the way, was held at the tea hour.

For a cool, easy lunch or supper, a pitcher of iced tea with sandwiches and relishes with a hearty dessert such as a luscious layer cake will be both refreshing and satisfying. Perhaps you will like to bake the sandwiches after wrapping them in foil and serve each one in its own envelope.

Savory Hot Sandwiches.

Combine grated cheese, minced ham, prepared mustard and pickle relish. Spread between slices of bread. Cut in triangular halves and wrap each sandwich in foil. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Serves in foil wrapping.

International Tea Punch.

One quart water, three tablespoons tea, four tablespoons rum, two tablespoons brandy, juice of two lemons, two cups sugar, one cup water, one quart sparkling water, chilled, one quart champagne, ice cubes.

Bring one quart of water to a full, rolling boil. Remove from heat. Immediately add three tablespoons tea. Brew three minutes. Stir and strain. Add rum, brandy and lemon juice. Keep at room temperature. Boil sugar and one cup water to make simple syrup. Cool and chill thoroughly.

When ready to serve, pour tea mixture, chilled syrup, soda water and champagne into punch bowl. To serve, place small ice cubes in champagne glasses and fill with punch. If desired, punch may be served from thoroughly chilled, scooped out watermelon on bed of ice, garnished with fresh fruit. Yield: 25 servings.

Original Hollywood Pattern

No. 212

EASY on the eye—easy to work or play in, and most important—so easy in the making. A design with pleated front and a little collar borrowed from the boys to insure you of seasonless possibilities with short or three-quarter sleeve lengths. It's a sure-fire formula for fashion slimness, too, because it's nipped in at the waistline with self-fabric belt.

Fabric Suggestions: Beautiful in piques, linen, shantungs—the crisp fabrics for summertime; later, sew the three-quarter sleeved version in lightweight woolens, flannels for a lovely fall forecast.

Star Pattern No. 212 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 36, 38, 40 and 42.

Material Requirements: Size 18: Dress with short sleeves requires 4⅝ yards of 35-inch fabric. Dress with three-quarter sleeves takes 4¼ yards of 39-inch or 3¼ yards of 54-inch fabric.

For the Star Pattern No. 212 shown above, send 50 cents in coin to Star Pattern Department, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Box 350, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N. Y.

SANITARY LANDFILLS OPENED BY COUNTY

One Operated on McKelvey Road, Other in Jefferson Barracks Vicinity.

Operation of two sanitary landfills for disposal of garbage and rubbish was begun today by St. Louis county on an "emergency, standby basis," County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews announced.

At the same time, the county's new ordinance regulating dumps and landfills went into effect. The ordinance prohibits operation of open dumps and provides fines of $25 to $500 for violations.

Actual use of one of the county landfills began yesterday when nine truckloads of refuse were dumped at a 100-acre site on McKelvey road two miles south of St. Charles Rock road.

The landfill, which will serve residents of north and west sections of the county, was leased from Vigus Quarries, Inc., which operates a quarry on an adjoining site.

Site at Barracks.

The other county landfill will be located in the northeast part of the national monument area at Jefferson Barracks and will cover 10 acres, M. Eugene Baughman, county planning director, said.

Beginning today, private or municipal garbage haulers may use either site without charge for two weeks, Baughman said. After that time, a schedule of fees will be set up, he added. The McKelvey road area was leased from the quarry firm under an arrangement calling for the county to pay $2 for each load dumped.

Both landfills will be financed initially from a $53,000 emergency appropriation authorized recently by the county council for such operations, Baughman said.

50 Loads a Day.

Fifty loads are expected to be dumped on the McKelvey road site each day, the planning director estimated, with the quarry firm to provide equipment used in covering the refuse with dirt. The county will use its own machinery for this purpose at the Jefferson Barracks landfill.

The county now has about 35 open dumps, operated by private firms or individuals who do most of the refuse hauling. Such dumps will now be illegal under the new ordinance, and must be replaced by landfills in which dirt is thrown over garbage dumped into excavations.

Dr. Herbert R. Domke, county health commissioner, said enforcement of the ordinance will begin Monday and four members of his staff will visit all dumps today to warn operators.

$433,561,550 BILL SIGNED FOR INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed a $433,561,550 money bill to finance the Interior Department for the fiscal year which ends next June 30.

The measure, a compromise of House and Senate proposals, was approved by a conference committee and whipped through Congress July 27. The House originally voted $406,130,343 for the department. The Senate increased this amount to $452,-956,940.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 1 (AP)—Workers at the Indiana Gear Works don't complain about the current heat wave. Whenever the temperature goes over 95 degrees, the management passes out free ber. Prsident John H. Buehler said about 98 per cent of the 700 workers drink it.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A burglar crawled in a grocery window and hit an employe, Jacob Johler, on the head with a can of tomatoes. Johler told police the man fled after "I hit him back with a jar of pickles."

Protective Measure.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A girl appeared before Justice of the Peace Bill Richburg dragging 15 dresses, two coats, 4 pairs of shoes, several hats, and an uncounted number of night garments, stockings and gloves—all in shreds.

A simple reason, said the boy who came along. He didn't want his girl friend to have dates with other men so he put his pocket knife to work on her wardrobe while she was downtown. He is in county jail pending hearing on a peace bond.

Taming of the West.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Wild West is tame in Salt Lake City. Residents can't even tell one animal from another. Mrs. Harold E. Allen told police that a beaver was in her back yard. Officers found a porccupine. The day before, a man asked officers to capture a bear in his yard. The police picked up a badger.

U.S. REJECTS CZECH PROTEST AGAINST 'FREEDOM' BALLOONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—The United States brushed aside yesterday a Czech protest against "Crusade for Freedom" balloons by saying Czechoslovakia could end the need for them by lifting the Iron Curtain.

A July 20 Czech note said the balloons carried leaflets of "an inciting nature aimed at disquieting" Czech people. The United States note said the American Government itself had no connection with the balloons.

The note said the American people believe in free communications and that when a government tries to seal off its people from the outside world, those outside will find means to penetrate the artificial barrier.

VEGETABLE MARKET

ST. LOUIS PRODUCE ROW, Aug. 1—Appended quotations reported by the "St. Louis Daily Market Reporter" represent first-nand wholesale sellers' price on less than carload quantities unless otherwise stated.

Produce trade was generally quiet to slow Saturday. Fluctuations in price were relatively narrow, and, with one or two exceptions, on the softer side. Principal activity was in the hot-weather items, lettuce, tomatoes and cantaloupes. Home-grown tomatoes about steady, supplies moderate and quality indifferent to poor. Potatoes strong on what appears to be a temporary shortage; red types plentiful and a trifle easier. Local cob corn movement continues heavy at low prices, and substantial volume unsold.

AUSTRIA INFORMS WEST OF TEXT OF NOTE TO RUSSIANS

VIENNA, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Austrian Foreign Office said today the United States, Britain and France were informed of the contents of an Austrian memorandum sent to the Soviet government in connection with the Austrian state treaty negotiations.

The statement, made in reply to an inquiry, referred to recent British charges that Austria had been secretly negotiating with Russia.

On July 30, a spokesman of the British Foreign Office, giving a preliminary British reaction to Russia's offer of new Austrian treaty talks, hinted that Austria had been negotiating directly with the Soviet Union without the knowledge of the Western powers.

The Soviet offer was contained in a note to the Austrian government, which said the way to the resumption of negotiations would be clear if Austria dropped its support of the West's so-called "abbreviated treaty."

A further official announcement said the Austrian cabinet will meet Tuesday to discuss Soviet notes dealing with resumption of the treaty talks and the abolition of Soviet occupation costs.

EISENHOWER SIGNS DROUTH BILL, OTHER MONEY MEASURES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed bills appropriating $150,000,000 for drouth relief loans and grants, $2,009,993,261 for Labor and Welfare Departments, $12,000,000 for the District of Columbia Government, and $447,364,499 for 20 independent federal agencies.

The totals are about $815,000,-000 less than former President Truman requested last January and $455,000,000 below the revised requests of President Eisenhower.

The money finances the agencies for the fiscal year next June 30.

FRANK NEWBURY NOMINATED AS DEFENSE SECRETARY AID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday nominated Frank D. Newbury of Pittsburgh, a retired business man, to be an assistant Secretary of Defense.

The nomination of Newbury brings to five the number of assistant secretaries of defense named since the President's Defense Department reorganization plan went into effect. He still has one more to name.

Newbury, 73 years old, retired in 1946 as vice president and a member of the board of Westinghouse Electric Corp.

LOWER PRICE RANGES MARK WEEK IN LIVESTOCK MARKET

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Aug. 1 (USDA weekly review of livestock market):

Continued liquidation of cattle was indicated by the large proportion of thin grass fed butcher yearlings and heifers, as well as cows and steers that were included in an increased supply. Only 10 cars of western grass steers were available, however. Prices at close Friday varied from weak to 50c lower on choice and prime steers and heifers with other grades 50c@$1 lower than the previous Friday, while cows and bulls declined 50c@$1 and severe pressure on utility and commercial cows late. Vealers finished $1 lower, with uneven declines registered on replacement steers as demand narrowed. Prime 1203-lb. steers topped at $27.25 with 990-lb. steers and 1031-lb. mixed yearlings $27. High choice and prime steers and heifers went largely at $26.50@27, good and choice $20@26. Ten cars of Oklahoma grass slaughter steers claimed $17@21.50. Limited numbers common to choice replacement steers went from $10@19.50. Utility and commercial cows bulked $10.50@13, closing deals $10@11.50. Utility and commercial bulls claimed $11@13.50, a few to $14 early. Prime vealers registered $24, good and choice largely $17@22.

Compared with last Friday, barrows and gilts 200-lbs. up $1.75@2 lower, lighter kinds $2.25@2.75 lower; sows 50@75c lower; no change boars or stags. Increased percentage of receipts comprised weights under 200 lbs. which met with sharp discrimination, especially late in week. Also liberal number utility and good $17@19 with raft of cull and utility throwouts $12@16.

ST. LOUIS LIVESTOCK EXCHANGE, National Stockyards, Aug. 1—Only 66 head of hogs arrived today and these were held over for sale Monday. No cattle, calves or sheep.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (INS)—Hogs were under heavy pressure at Midwest markets the past week and prices were down as much as $4 a hundred pounds, one of the sharpest breaks of the year. Cattle prices were steady to lower and lambs irregular.

The drastic break in hog prices largely reflected sharply lower wholesale values for dressed pork values as hot weather helped to cut consumer demand.

In the wholesale meat trade at New York, pork loins lost 8 to 10 cents a pound. Declines at Philadelphia ranged to 15 cents and at Chicago lightweight loins lost 11 to 16 cents. Declines on other pork items ranged up to 6 cents a pound.

Top hog prices ranged from $24.50@25.25, compared with $26.85@27.25 a week earlier. The late top at Chicago was $25.25, the lowest in six weeks. The bulk of the 190 to 280-pound butchers at Midwest terminals finished the week at $23.50@25 a hundred pounds.

The choice and prime grades of steers, scaling up to around 1300 pounds generally held steady at Chicago. Steers over 1400 pounds dropped 50 cents to $1.

The bulk of the good to low-prime steers and yearlings sold from $20@27.50 for the week. Tops for the best prime offerings of cattle reached $28.25 for steers and $27.50 for heifers at Chicago.

Choice and prime spring lambs ended the week at a top of $26 at Indianapolis and Chicago. Most choice and prime springers brought $23@25.50 in the week's closing trade at Midwest centers. The supply of sheep and lambs at 12 markets totaled 75,000, compared to 73,100 a week ago and 79,500 a year ago.

STOCKS ROSE IN JULY, TRADITION IS UPHELD

Market Overcomes Korean Truce Jitters and Closes Higher.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (UP)—Stocks overcame Korean truce jitters this week and closed higher on the week and higher for July.

The summer rise tradition was maintained when the industrial and rail shares managed to finish higher for the month. The rails barely made it but the industrials had a wide margin of gain—more than 7 points for July.

Trading was the smallest for a July since 1949. Bond trading was even worse—smallest for a July since 1914, when World War I began.

Rails, Oils, Leaders.

Stocks declined gradually on Monday and Tuesday, the two first post-truce sessions. The selling was so light that traders took heart and resumed buying in a cautious way.

Railroad and oil shares led the upturn which was joined in with a good will by the steels, automobile issues, metals and many miscellaneous groups. The whole market was higher as the week ended and volume rose. The market also broadened considerably from the recent narrow sessions.

The market gained in price and in volume to the last tick on Friday.

The betterment reflected in part a horde of highly favorable corporation reports. Hundreds of them showed gains in net income compared with a year ago.

Dow-Jones in a survey found that 416 companies showed an aggregate gain of 25 per cent in net income for the second quarter compared with a year ago.

The big steel, oil and automobile companies issued reports that surprised the experts for their sharp increases. Meantime, heads of those corporations made favorable business predictions for the remainder of the year.

Business Rebounding.

Business was resuming its fast clip with vacations ending in many sections. This was noticed in the use of electricity which set an all-time record high for the past week.

Wall Street considered that the market now has eliminated two items which recently were troubling it—the excess profits tax and the Korean truce.

Sales for the week totaled 5,800,439 shares, most since the week ended June 12.

The Dow-Jones industrial average closed the week at 275.38, up 5.62 points on the week and up 7.12 points for July; railroad, 105.86, up 0.64 and 1.09; utility, 49.45, up 0.60 and 0.91, and 65 stocks, 107.30, up 1.55 and 2.12.

WHOLESALE PRICES DOWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—Average wholesale prices fell one-half of 1 per cent in the week ended July 28, the Bureau of Labor statistics reported today.

Weekly Earnings Climb.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1 (AP)—Average weekly earnings in Canadian industry climbed to a new peak of $57.70 as of June 17, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The earlier high was the $57.51 May 1 figure. Figure for June 1, 1952, was $54.08.

Dow-Jones Bond Average Friday

Dow-Jones average of 40 bonds closed Friday at 95.34, up .22 of a point for the day.

NEW 7-MONTH AUTO RECORD

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP) — Ward's Automotive Reports credited United States auto makers with a new January-July passenger car output mark today, putting the seven months production at 3,852,624 units. The previous January-July peak was 3,709,893 cars built in that period of 1950.

Truck output for January-July was 749,263 units, a total reached in less than six-months in the record year of 1951.

Ward's put this week's output at 133,204 cars and 26,022 trucks. Last week Unites Sttaes factories built 134,447 cars and 26,690 trucks, the agency figures showed. In the comparable 1952 week 14,752 cars and 4008, trucks were assembled.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

FROM a reader with the initials of J. C. E. comes a question about the surface gravity of the planet Mercury as compared with that of Jupiter.

Jupiter is vastly larger than Mercury, but the difference in surface gravity is less than we might expect.

Let us suppose that a certain boy weighs 100 pounds on the earth. If he went to Mercury, his weight (on a spring balance) would be only 20 pounds. If he went to Jupiter, he would weigh 250 pounds.

* * *

THAT IS quite a difference, but it is less than we might expect from the comparative sizes of the two planets. Jupiter has a diameter at the equator of 143,768 miles. Mercury's diameter is only 3150 miles.

Jupiter's diameter is about 28 times as great as that of Mercury, but the boy on Jupiter would weigh only 12 and a half times as much as on Mercury.

In figuring surface gravity, scientists must take several factors into account. One factor is density.

Let us note that the material of Mercury is more dense, on the average, than that of Jupiter. This has been proved by comparing the mass and volume of each planet. If we could bring an average cubic yard of material from each of those planets to the earth, the cubic yard from Mercury would weigh twice as much as that from Jupiter.

* * *

ASTRONOMERS know the density of all the main planets except Pluto. Among the eight with known density, Saturn is made of the lightest material. An average cubic yard from Saturn would weigh less than one eighth as much as an average cubic yard from our earth.

If our 100-pound boy could go to Saturn, he would be on a planet many times as large as the earth. He would weigh little more on Saturn, however, than on earth. Scientists estimate that his weight would amount to 106 pounds on Saturn.

CHAPTER 28.
Conclusion.

"I'D NO IDEA you were leaving so soon, Dave."

"Nor I. But I just learned that Emily's flying home." He looked down at the showcase and saw a pin, a silver half-moon, a star in its arms. Em might like that. No, how did he know what she'd like now?

"I'm stopping at the bank; I'll see Frank," he said. He took Karen's hand, flesh and blood, the narrow hand, and thin; he could feel the bones, bird delicate, not a small hand but strong.

"Perhaps when I return you'll be married. But I'll know beforehand, I hope."

I'll know, he thought; I'll wake one night; I'll be walking down the street, or sitting at a table, or talking to someone, and I'll know.

She colored. She said: "I—well, I'm not sure."

He released her hand, smiling, which was harder to accomplish than tears. "Goodby, Grandma Moses."

He went out and walked the short distance to the bank. There he talked to the cashier. "Tens, fives, some 20s; oh, yes, and you'd better give me seven in ones and three in silver. . . . No, I'm not closing the account; I'll be up from time to time. . . . Well, thanks, the same to you."

He went to Frank's cage and said goodby. Shaking hands: "Good luck, Frank," he said.

Driving out of town, he thought: I'll be back; I'll see her again, with Frank or without him; it doesn't, essentially, matter.

For he thought: She's alive, she walks and breathes, she speaks and moves, she sleeps and wakes; she is here, she is now, and in this world, with me; her heart beats; her mind is occupied with its own concerns; she is frailly clothed in flesh.

For this he was profoundly grateful.

* * *

DRIVING, first the highways, broad, edged with trees and tourist allurements; then the narrower, twisting roads that would lead him past village and river, past forest and brook, to the blue width of the lake and the high, arching bridge, he thought, aching with tenderness, Karen, my little love.

And then, Tim.

But Tim was not alive, save in the incorruptible spirit.

The car swerved sharply, and for a second it appeared that he must plunge over steepness. He brought it back to safety, sweating. How had he reached Tim, by what degrees, how reclaimed him, and was himself reclaimed?

Oh, this, this was what he must tell Em, first of all, before anything else was said; he must tell her of the reconciliation and the final acceptance. And later his mother and Roger Newton. Not with the dramatic fervor of the man who announces himself saved to a cloud of witnesses, but soberly searching for words, as the man who once said: "Lord, I believe. Help Thou my unbelief."

When he stopped to rest, to eat and drink, and sat there in the small hotel, with strangers about him, and under the glassy regard of deer heads, he remembered something he had brushed aside, meaning to examine it later, and then had forgotten.

Why was Em coming home suddenly? Had George cabled—no, telephoned her after his descent upon camp?

He thought: I don't know. Shall I ever know? She'd tell me, if I asked, unless she's greatly changed. If I ask, George got in touch with you, didn't he? He told you about Karen?

What could he tell her in the face of my denial? "Look, Em, I hate to do this, but there's something you should know. About Dave. There's a girl up there, quite a young girl. . . ."

If so, if this was why she took to the air like a bird, pursued by terror, then she had not really changed from the other young girl who had said: "I'd wait till you got over it," meaning: "I won't let you go."

If so, nothing in her letter was true, however true she intended it to be, saying she'd free him if there was a "reason"; then, upon hearing of a reason, flung up her work, cast her plans aside, and came home.

People said: "Emily has so much pride." She herself had said: "Pride's just a word."

If he didn't ask her, would she tell him? Or would she be silent, and in her turn not ask the question. . . . Who is she, Dave; does she love you; do you love her?

* * *

FOR almost the first time in his knowledge of her he could make no prediction and yet would have said some months ago, Emily is entirely unpredictable.

Was she? Is anyone?

What their future would be, if indeed they had a shared future, he did not know either. But could hope, for the tenderness which was Tim's, and which had extended to embrace Karen, and others besides Karen, the tenderness which for so long he had believed his wife rejected, reach out again to encompass her. If it had not been rejection but an inability openly to accept, then their future was assured. For a while he would not know, but must wait.

I rejected her.

She knows, she tried to understand; perhaps now she does understand. But there is no rejection in me, because I am alive again, because I have come back to living.

When he reached the bridge he went to a place where, in a public park, there was space to rest, to sit in the car and look at the mountains.

He looked back at those he had left, against the rim of the sky. They had been there for a very long time, they would eternally remain. Then he turned to look at those across the water, which he had not yet reached. Over all mountains the sky, the great signature of God.

Now he started the car and drove on, not knowing where this drive must end, but at peace with the past and, through the past, with the present and the future, and therefore a happy man.

The End.
